BODY OF ELEVENTH NEGRO FOUND IN GEORGIA CASE

Last Two Bodies, Recovered From River, Chained Together and Weighted Down With Stones.

INQUEST HELD OVER EIGHT BODIES

Coroner's Jury Finds That in Two Cases Negroes Were Forced to Dig Graves Before Being Killed.

MONTICELLO, Ga., March 28.—Two more bodies of negroes were recovered from the Alcovy River here yesterday, making a total of 11 bodies found since the authorities began an investigation of charges of peonage and murder against John Williams, a Jasper County farmer. Like the first three found a number of days ago, the bodies recovered yesterday were chained together and weighted down with sacks of stones and iron. Five bodies were found Saturday, buried on the Williams plantation.

According to a confession made to Department of Justice agents by Clyde Manning, a negro employed by Williams, the 11 negroes were slain and their bodies made away with in order to prevent them from testifying against Williams in the peonage charges. Manning, it was said, confessed he killed five of them with an ax at Williams' order. The bodies were recovered Saturday.

The coroner's jury investigating the death found that in two cases the negroes were compelled to dig their own graves. Williams and Manning both are being held in jail here under close guard.

Inquest on Eight Bodies. At the inquest held over eight of the bodies a verdict was returned yesterday declaring the negroes came to their death at the hands of Manning and naming Williams as an accessory.

Solicitor Campbell of Newton County requested Gov. Dorsey to appoint Attorney-General Denney to take charge of the investigations. The coroner's jury conducted the inquest by numbers. The first inquest was over John Williams, same name as the plantation owner, whose grave, it is alleged, was dug by himself. The jury found that the negro was sent to a pasture in a ravine to dig a post hole. After digging the hole, Manning's confession it was said to show that he struck Williams over the head with an ax, pushed the body into the hole and covered it up.

Johnny Greene was No. 2. He was sent to the same pasture to bring cows back to the stable. Manning is said to have confessed that he killed Greene in the same way, but he had to dig the grave.

Williams Named in Verdict. Willis Gibbs was referred to as No. 3. He was said to have been killed on his way to a country store. In the same ravine, but Charles Chisholm was named as the negro who killed Gibbs. Fletcher Smith, body No. 4, was sent to dig a well. When Smith had dug deep enough for the body, Manning's confession, as repeated to the jury, showed he was killed with an ax by Manning and buried in the hole.

In case No. 5, known as "Big John," Manning was held responsible. In the cases of Nos. 7 and 8, "Little Ben" and John Williams, the jury held that the negroes Manning and Chisholm and John Williams, the plantation owner, were responsible. The verdict for No. 9, Charles Chisholm, read: "We, the jury, find that Charles Chisholm met his death at the hands of Clyde Manning and John S. Williams."

Around March 1, two Department of Justice agents, A. J. Wiener and E. S. Chastain, came to Jasper County to investigate alleged peonage practices on the Williams plantation. They called on Williams, among others, but it is said that Williams gave a satisfactory explanation.

Warrant for Sons. At that time Williams is said to have had only 13 negroes. The special agents went to the farm of Hulen Williams, a son of John Williams, where they are said to have been guarding the negroes with a shotgun.

The Williamses are said to have resisted the visit of the Government agents and after the agents left the premises Williams is said to have become apprehensive of the results. The three sons of Williams were at that time said to have been sent away from the plantation. These sons are Hulen, Leroy and Marvin. They were gone for three weeks.

It was after they left the place, it is alleged, that the bodies were discovered. The sons have not been arrested. Warrants for the arrests have been returned to the Governor.

CARDINAL'S BODY LIES IN STATE AT CATHEDRAL NEW MOTION PREPARED FOR MRS. STILLMAN

Funeral Guards Watch Bier and "Prayer Guard" Will Be Maintained Until Funeral Thursday.

BALTIMORE, March 28.—The body of Cardinal Gibbons was borne this morning from the bed chamber in which he died last Thursday to the cathedral, where it will lie in state until Thursday, the day of the funeral.

The ceremony of removal was simple. Headed by an acolyte bearing a cross, the members of the cathedral staff of priests carried the body through the covered passageway connecting the residence with the church. Behind marched eight chanting seminarymen. Arranged in the mass vestments of an Archbishop, the body rests upon a catafalque at the head of the center aisle immediately in front of the chancel. The cathedral within and without is draped in purple and black.

Day and night until the hour of the funeral guards of 12 men, selected from the different Catholic laymen's societies, will stand beside the bier and each day from early morning until late at night a "guard of prayer" from the daughters of Isabella will kneel in the pews offering prayers for the repose of the soul of the honored prelate.

The six front pews had to be removed to make space for the bier and for the procession which will be passing it continuously from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. today, tomorrow and Wednesday, the time the public will be admitted to view the body.

The first ceremony of the funeral was a requiem high mass this morning for the Cardinal, celebrated by the Rev. Louis R. Stickney, rector of the cathedral, assisted by priests of the late Cardinal's household.

Cardinal Gibbons Most Popular Man in U. S., London Churchmen Say. LONDON, March 28.—High tribute was paid to the late Cardinal Gibbons in Easter Sunday sermons here. Father Bernard Vaughan declared that if a plebiscite for the most popular man in the United States had been taken, Cardinal Gibbons would have headed the list. He said that no churchman had exercised such sure and quick sway over his countrymen as Cardinal Gibbons for the United States.

Cardinal Bourne, in Westminster Cathedral last night, said that his death was a loss not only to his diocese and the Catholic church of the United States, but to the whole English-speaking world and the universal church.

Monsignor Francis C. Kelley of Chicago said that Cardinal Gibbons was a sure-footed statesman, who always said the right thing at the right time, and therefore every American—Protestant and Catholic, Jew and Gentile—was interested in what he had to say.

MANY INCENDIARY FIRES IN COUNTRY NEAR LONDON

Special Detectives Guard Government Buildings, the Home of Lloyd George and Bank of England.

20 FARM BUILDINGS REPORTED BURNED

Oil Cans Found Near Ruins in Many Places—Scotland Yard Mobilizes Motor Fleet to Rush to Scenes.

LONDON, March 28.—A campaign of incendiary in various parts of the country is assuming such proportions that the authorities of Scotland Yard are mobilizing a fleet of motor cars and lorries to rush to any point where there is a call for their services. This plan is similar to one adopted here recently when many incendiary fires were set in London.

The evening standard asserts that further Sinn Fein plots to destroy farm buildings on the outskirts of London have been discovered.

Special detectives were posted last night outside of Government buildings and No. 19 Downing street, the official home of Premier Lloyd George, and special precautions were taken by the Bank of England.

Farm buildings numbering 20 were burned in the Newcastle District, while other fires occurred at St. Albans and in Hertfordshire, Beaconsfield and Buckinghamshire.

Near the ruins at a number of places oil cans were found.

The Irish bulletin was issued from this office, but its reappearance elsewhere is expected. None of the members of the staff was found on the premises.

Reports made to the authorities in connection with the capture of the large quantity of arms and ammunition found by Government forces in Dublin last Friday show that the munitions were landed on the coast of Kerry in fish barrels a few days previously. They were then sent to Sligo by train and motor cars reaching Sligo Tuesday night and arriving in Dublin the next morning.

The bombs and shells were packed in boxes and in motor cars reaching Sligo Tuesday night and arriving in Dublin the next morning.

This firm, it is explained, had no knowledge of the shipment, and the goods were intercepted, according to officials, by Sinn Fein agents and taken to the stables in Mount Joy Square where they were discovered.

The munitions, it is declared, were intended for use in connection with a plan to ambush the Crown forces on the Mount Joy last Easter Sunday. It was intended, the authorities declare, to attack the prison in the hope of regaining the Sinn Fein prisoners.

Mine Found Under Bridge. A well-laid mine containing several hundred pounds of explosives and fuses was discovered by auxiliary forces in County Kilkenny recently. The mine, which was laid under a large bridge, was found in time to avert a disaster to several heavy loads of cattle.

BYRNES TO SPEAK AT MEETING IN THE 24TH WARD TONIGHT

Candidate for Mayor Says Address Will Be on Main Issue of Business Administration of City.

DECLARES MACHINE MUST BE SMASHED

Asserts That Is the Day's Work for Tuesday, April 5, and Then Vital Needs Must Be Taken Up.

JAMES W. BYRNES, Democratic nominee for Mayor, running on a nonpartisan platform of business administration, will speak tonight at the Twenty-fourth Ward, in the southwest portion of the city, at Kordenbrook's Hall, Southwest avenue and Fifty-ninth street.

Byrnnes said today to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he expected to receive a large measure of partisan abuse at the Republican meetings which are to be held throughout the city this week in support of Mayor Kiel's third-term campaign.

"I expect a broadside of calumny and misstatements," Byrnnes said, "but I will not enter into any personal controversy, and I will not be swayed from the main issue, which is a business administration of the city, free from politics."

To Talk Differences. "It makes no difference to me what the crowd says, whether the spokesman be Nerry Nat, bounding Bobby, or our Governor, Senator, Congressman or State Senator. I shall talk business. That is what the taxpayers are interested in."

"Under machine rule, we have fallen from fourth to sixth place among the cities of this country. The question arises, what must we do?"

"First, we must smash the machine. That is one day's work, and Tuesday, April 5, is the day."

"Second, we must take up the vital business needs of the city, of which transportation is foremost. We must improve transportation within the city, and we must provide facilities for loading and unloading freight in the city. Bad streets and narrow streets hamper access to our freight depots and river terminals. This retards business, as any transporter or express truck driver can testify."

"By encouraging more railroads to enter the city, and facilitating the business of those we have, new fields of employment will be opened."

"We must have more associations are well organized, and are doing fine work, but it is the business of the city administration to combine these efforts to obtain better results. We need a change from a political to a business administration."

Mayor Kiel's meetings announced for tonight are at the Washington Hotel, at Wrayman's Hall, Kosuth and Wrayman avenues, and at the Macklind Theater, 5415 Arsenal street.

United States Senator Spencer arrived in St. Louis from Washington today to take part in the campaign for Kiel. He said he would make his first speech tonight.

There will be no change for the present in the price of shaves and haircuts in the 500 union shops in St. Louis. This was settled yesterday when employing barbers met with spokesmen for the Journeymen Barbers' Union to renew the annual contract.

Whether war-time prices for shaves are to longer faces, or vice versa, was not discussed; the employers simply expressed themselves as satisfied with present prices, and their employees were similarly pleased with the existing wage scale. In fact, so content was each side with existing conditions, that they made the contract for an indefinite term, to be altered only by mutual agreement.

The wage scale provides that each journeyman shall receive a guarantee of a minimum of $25 a week, and, in addition, shall receive 65 percent of all his gross receipts over $25 a week. The only change in the contract was one providing that the shops shall be closed on holidays, regardless of the day on which they fall. Formerly, when holidays fell on Saturdays or Mondays, the shops were kept open.

The prices of barber shop services are fixed in the contract. Thus, shaves remain at 25 cents, and haircuts at 15 cents. A new tonorial ministrations, known to the trade as the "bancilla treatment," and to most customers as a "mud massage," had not been mentioned in the preceding contract. The price was fixed at $1.25.

The decision points out that there are under consideration by the board several hundred grievances which should be determined by boards of adjustment if such boards were in existence. It also pointed out the kinds of work done by the employees was unclassified and said therefore it was virtually impossible to understate the need for standardization of rules upon which to base a wage award.

A general rules hearing affecting the trunk lines of the country is before the board. No set of rules, however, has ever been applied uniformly to the short lines.

Representatives of the carriers and the employees are still giving the board's decision.

Among the short lines affected are the Mississippi River & Bonne Terre and St. Louis & Hannibal lines.

GOVERNOR SIGNS JUDICIAL REDISTRIBUTING MEASURE

JEFFERSON CITY, March 28.—Gov. Hyde this morning signed the Elmer judicial redistributing bill, which legislators out of office served Democratic Circuit Judges and gives the Governor the authority to appoint their successors. The Governor also signed the bill reorganizing the terms of the Circuit Courts to conform to the redistributing bill.

His signature was affixed to the judicial measure after Attorney-General Barrett had informed him that defects discovered in it did not invalidate the major portion of the bill.

The defects do not affect the bill as a whole, the Governor said, and the mistakes may be corrected at some future time.

The bill casts a cloud upon the Court of Common Pleas at Louisiana, one of the oldest tribunals in the State. Attorney-General Barrett says the court was not abolished. There is no provision in the bill for taking over the work of this tribunal. The measure failed to repeal the act under which common pleas courts at Louisiana and Sturgeon were created.

A number of Circuit Judges were scheduled to meet in Jefferson City today to decide upon a course to take to prevent the redistributing bill from becoming operative. Judge State said a number of Judges would reach the city at night.

Gov. Hyde also signed the education bill, which carries the following appropriations: Kirksville Teachers' College, $628,125; Warrensburg, $525,500; Cape Girardeau, $459,242; Springfield, $576,473; Maryville, $559,850; School of Mines, Rolla, $532,660; Lincoln Institute, Jefferson City, $329,500; and to the University of Missouri at Columbia, $2,661,100.

WAGE INCREASE DENIED MEN ON 67 SHORT LINES

Railroad Labor Board Dismisses the Plea Filed Last Fall by 15 Unions.

WAGE INCREASE DENIED MEN ON 67 SHORT LINES

CHICAGO, March 28.—The United States Railroad Labor Board today dismissed appeals for increased wages filed with it last fall by 15 railway labor unions against 67 "short lines" throughout the country.

Short lines which accepted for their men the terms of the $900,000,000 wage award of last July will not be privileged to go back to the old scale, under today's action, however, the announcement of the board says.

This decision shall not be considered as affecting any wage increase now in effect nor any agreement regarding wages between any of the carriers and their employees. The board decision affects approximately 4000 employees.

The roads involved are in general remote from large cities and provide service for small communities in virtually every State. Because of the varying kinds of work performed by the employees the board declares it found it "impracticable to decide on the evidence submitted what are reasonable wages for the varying work under infinitely varying conditions" by the employees.

The decision points out that there are under consideration by the board several hundred grievances which should be determined by boards of adjustment if such boards were in existence. It also pointed out the kinds of work done by the employees was unclassified and said therefore it was virtually impossible to understate the need for standardization of rules upon which to base a wage award.

DAYLIGHT SAVING VOTED DOWN AT C. T. L. U. MEETING

Proposition Is Defeated 200
to 26 After Discussion, Some Speakers Favoring
the Proposal.

TEAMSTERS FOR ADOPTION OF PLAN

Street Car Men's Union Votes Unanimously to Oppose Measure; Motion Picture
Operators Against It.

A proposition to indorse the daylight saving plan for St. Louis was overwhelmingly defeated yesterday, after considerable debate, by the Central Trades and Labor Union, representing approximately 80,000 trades unionists in 200 locals. The action of the central body followed similar action taken last week by the Building Trades Council, representing 80 organized building crafts of the city, with 12,000 members.

Similar action was taken today by the Street Car Men's Union, representing a membership of approximately 6000 employees of the United Railways Co. A motion to oppose the daylight saving bill was carried by unanimous vote without any discussion.

The discussion in the Central Trades and Labor Union started when Daniel Murphy, business agent of the Teamsters' Union, introduced a resolution favoring adoption of the bill now pending in the Board of Aldermen to advance the clocks an hour the last of April and to keep them that way until the last of September. Before he had finished reading the resolution, a dozen men were on their feet demanding to be heard.

A Progressive Measure.
Murphy said that the measure was a progressive one in keeping with the policy of many other large cities. He said no reasonable objection against the proposition ever had been offered. He was personally interested in the plan, he said, because he represented a large group of union bread and milk wagon drivers who have to get up early in the morning and who are not object to getting up an hour earlier during the summer months in order to get an additional hour of rest and recreation in the heat of the afternoon.

William F. Canavan, of the Picture Machine Operators' Union, opposed the daylight saving movement because, he said, it would mean that members of his craft would have to work an hour later at night.

"We have daylight in the summer until 8 p. m., he said, "and that is long enough. If the clocks are pushed ahead it will mean that air-planes cannot begin showing pictures until 9 o'clock. The moving picture operators helped to dot the plan last year and we will do so again. The railroads will not change their schedules if the ordinance is adopted and that will mean a lot of inconvenience to the traveling public. Let us continue by God's time."

Musicians Oppose Move.
Stephen H. Butler of Musicians' Union, Local 2, announced that the 1400 union musicians of the city had expressed opposition to the bill. He said that about 700 of the musicians were employed in moving picture theaters and that they were actuated by the interests of their employers as well as by their own interests.

He said that if the clocks are pushed ahead an hour it will mean that air-planes can give only one show each night instead of two. In the year that the daylight savings plan was followed in the war period, he said, the receipts of the picture theaters fell off from $344,000 to $250,000.

Thomas J. Coyne, vice president of the Central Trades and Labor Union, said that he did not see why workmen should be opposed to the saving of daylight.

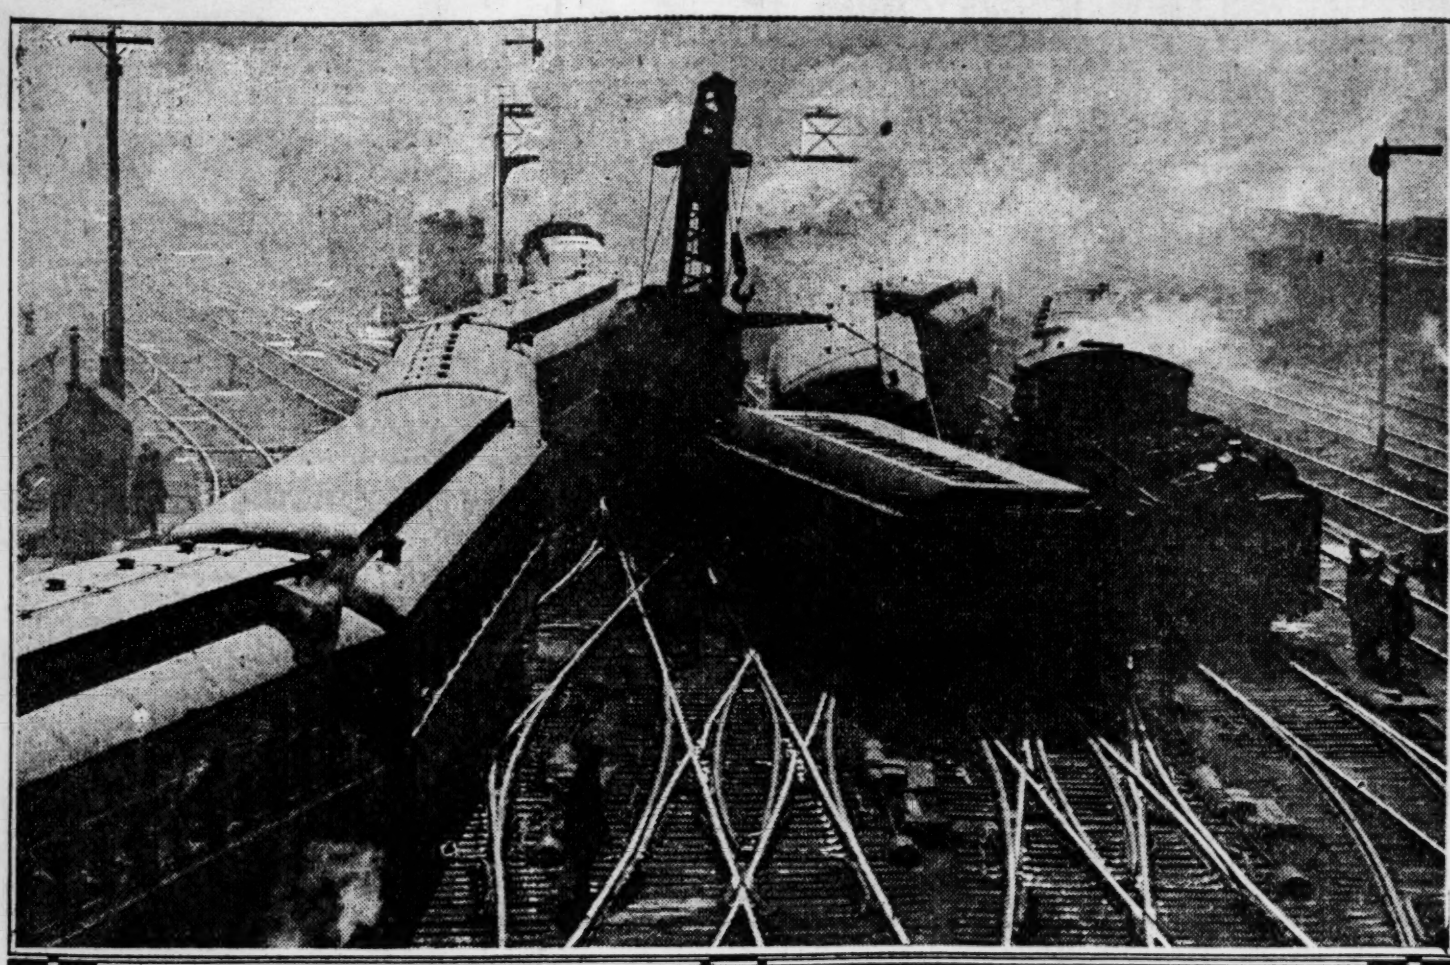

"It is not designed to benefit the 'idle rich' as has been hinted," he said. "The rich don't need any extra daylight. They can go out and play golf at any time. The workmen will benefit because they will have an extra hour in the afternoon to play ball or take their families on an outing."

Advocates of Plan Hooted.
The remarks of opponents of the measure were loudly applauded, while those of the speakers who advocated the passage of the bill were hooted. President Hauser cut short the discussion and ordered a vote on the resolution to indorse the plan. It was defeated by a vote of more than 200 to 26.

As has been told, the Building Trades Council, in a letter to President Aloc of the Board of Aldermen, informing him that the unions in the building industries were opposed to daylight saving, stated that in order to do efficient work the workmen must have the rest of the morning and an extra hour at night would not be an acceptable substitute.

There will be a public hearing before the Legislation Committee of the Board of Aldermen Wednesday on the daylight saving bill. Thousands of signatures, urging passage of the ordinance, have been obtained by proponents.

Ninety-seven persons were arrested in police raids on saloons, pool-rooms and other places about the city yesterday and late Saturday night.

Harry Schultz, bartender, and Tony Wirgicki of 1414 North Fifteenth street, a customer, were arrested in a saloon at 1528 O'Fallon street when the police found behind the bar an ounce and a half of what they say is whisky.

Walter Zakrzewski, saloon keeper at 1105 O'Fallon street, was arrested when he attempted to destroy a glass and bottle of what the police say was whisky. The police obtained a sample.

Adam Lapinski, saloon keeper at 815 O'Fallon street, was arrested when policemen claim to have found four ounces of corn whisky behind the bar.

Other arrests were: Frank Simon, saloon keeper at 1440 South Seventh street, a bottle of liquor taken from behind a curtain in the saloon; George Schmidt, saloon keeper at 1617 Park avenue, and Edward Meyer, 1912 Chouteau avenue, potted nine men found in a room on third floor of 1322 South Seventh street.

Four men and four women were taken from the Sprague Hotel, 920 North Taylor avenue, at 2 a. m. yesterday, and were locked up at the Sprague Street Station. William A. Deane, 52 years old, the proprietor, also was arrested.

Seven men, a pair of dice and $65 were taken from a poolroom at 1528 O'Fallon street, charged with gambling.

Search of a shed in the rear of a saloon at 2000 Olive street disclosed seven and one-half pints of whisky. Entrance to the shed was possible by a pair of dice on a padded table. The bartender and porter were arrested.

Half Barrel of Beer in Saloon.
In a saloon at 3300 Franklin avenue police found a half-barrel of home-made beer on tap, and Earl Walker, the bartender, on duty. They arrested Walker and confiscated the home brew, charged with being suspected of gambling.

A wash tub full of ice, in which were packed 10 bottles of beer and a 10-gallon jug of raisin mash, were found in the home of Frank Pawlowski, 1425 North Twenty-second street. Pawlowski and his wife were arrested.

FEAR FOR FRUIT AFTER FREEZING TEMPERATURE

ducting a Statewide investigation by wire today.

Temperatures ranged from 17 to 19 degrees in Central Missouri from 10 to 14 in the north and 22 to 24 in Southern Missouri, with eccentric variations up and down in protected or exposed communities. At Cairo, Ill., across the river from Mississippi County, the Government thermometer registered 24 degrees. The lowest temperature in Jefferson City was 17 degrees.

Col. Arthur J. Nelson of Lebanon, Laclede County, president of the State Board of Agriculture, announced by telephone early today that the lowest temperature in that big apple section was 18 degrees, with considerable sleet, yet little snow. Peaches, cherries and plums were in full bloom, and evidently badly damaged. Early apples were in bloom, but the latter varieties were not fully out. He is convinced that the apple and other fruit damage is serious, and particularly so because of the bright sunshine in the afternoon following the freeze, whereas a cloudy day would have tended to lessen the loss. Frost breaks down the fruit cells, but under cloudy weather they tend to build up again.

Temperature remained low in South Missouri this morning.

Last year, 1920, was a very bad fruit year in most Missouri counties, yet the State valuation on the crop was: Strawberries, $1,259,000; peaches, 788,000 bushels, $1,995,000; pears, 272,000 bushels, $435,200; apples, 5,082,000 bushels, $7,623,000.

The 1920 valuation of miscellaneous fruit and vegetable crops in Missouri's 265,004 farms was, in addition to the above crops, $10,000,000.

Conditions so far as developed, indicate that there has not been any material damage to growing wheat and oats. A late frost or freeze sometimes damages growing wheat in a limited way, developing "yellow spots."

Severe Freeze in Mississippi Valley;
Cold Wave Due in Gulf States.
WASHINGTON, March 28.—High temperatures still prevailed early today in Eastern States, but a cold wave was marching swiftly eastward from the Great Lakes region, due to strike the Atlantic seaboard tomorrow, the Weather Bureau said. The lake region and Mississippi Valley was in the grip of a "severe freeze," the bureau said, and temperatures in New England and Middle Atlantic States will start down tonight after rains late in the day. Local rains and cooler weather in South Atlantic States was forecast, with cold wave reaching the Gulf States Tuesday.

Warnings of the cold wave have been ordered up for New England, the Middle Atlantic region, the western portion of the Carolinas, the Gulf States, Eastern Tennessee and West Virginia.

Heavy Damage to Fruit Reported in Southern Missouri.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 28.—While the full extent of the damage done to the fruit crop of Southern Missouri by last night's freeze cannot be ascertained for a day or two, it undoubtedly will amount to several million dollars. All of the early varieties of apples, peaches, plums, pears and cherries were in full bloom

REPORT OF TRUE BILL AGAINST MRS. ORTHWEIN IN SHOOTING

Chicago Grand Jury Said to Have Charged Her With Manslaughter.

Chicago, March 28.—Runners that a true bill charging manslaughter had been voted today by the grand jury against Mrs. Isabella Cora Orthwein, formerly of St. Louis, who shot and killed Herbert P. Ziegler, one of the sons of a 2837 Cates avenue, about 5:30 p. m. yesterday, leading to the arrest of Devoey and John P. Leahy, attorney, of 3311 Calumet street, on cross-charges of disturbing the peace.

Leahy today applied for an information charging Devoey with assault and with flooding a deadly weapon. Assistant Circuit Attorney Schweitzer refused to issue the information in the absence of Mrs. Leahy, who, her husband said, was ill at home as a result of her experience yesterday. Leahy alleged that Devoey resisted efforts of Mrs. Leahy and Devoey's young niece, Alice Heinrichs, to remove from his home, clothing belonging to the niece, who has been adopted by Mrs. Cartwright.

By consent of both sides the Police Court cases were continued to April 7. It was stated in court that Devoey was too ill to appear.

Devoey is a son of the late Edward Devoey, coal dealer. Mrs. Edward Devoey, who inherited her husband's estate, valued at about $175,000, has since died. In her will she left the bulk of her property to Mrs. Cartwright and the late Mrs. Leahy, who was the wife of Charles L. Devoey and three other sons.

The home where the altercation occurred was visited by Mrs. Cartwright. She and her niece lived there with Charles L. Devoey until last Friday, when they moved to the Leahy home. Leahy is attorney for Mrs. Cartwright in resisting the will contest.

Leahy today told a Post-Dispatch reporter Mrs. Leahy and Alice Heinrichs went to the Devoey home yesterday afternoon to get clothing belonging to the girl. Leahy said he saw Mrs. Leahy push the girl into the house and a few minutes later Mrs. Leahy appeared at an upstairs window and called to a young woman who had driven them to the house in her automobile.

"He is holding us prisoner and won't let us out," Leahy said, hurried there and was denied admission. From the front porch, he said, he could see Devoey resisting efforts of Mrs. Leahy and the girl to leave the house. Leahy said he saw Mrs. Leahy push the girl into the house and a few minutes later Mrs. Leahy appeared at an upstairs window and called to a young woman who had driven them to the house in her automobile.

rant Is Not Competent.

Holding that evidence of violation of the Volstead act is not competent if obtained in a search made without a search warrant, United States Commissioner Atkins today discharged Charles Spino of 3516 Morgan street, in whose garage 1109 quarts of bottled whisky and 450 gallons of grain alcohol were found Feb. 23 by detectives.

Spino was represented by former Special Assistant Attorney General Vance J. Higgs, whose duty it formerly was to prosecute such cases. He cited numerous decisions to the effect that evidence seized, on a person's premises without a search warrant could not be introduced in court.

The confiscated liquor is in possession of the Government authorities, and it is expected the Spino will demand its return to him.

PROSPECTS FOR RECORD FRUIT CROP IN OKLAHOMA REPORTED

CARTAGE, Mo., March 28.—Prospects for a record fruit crop in the Ozarks were wiped out last night, it is feared, when the mercury dropped to 24 following the Easter rain, which turned to hail and sleet. Growers declare all early fruit is destroyed and the late fruit badly damaged. Wheat in many fields had jointed and it is feared this was killed.

ALTERCATION AT DEVOY HOME OVER CONTESTED WILL

Charles L. Devoey and John P. Leahy, Attorney, Arrested on Cross Charges of Disturbing Peace.

DISPUTE OVER GIRL'S CLOTHING

Lawyer Says Devoey Flourished Revolver and Sought to Prevent Departure of Mrs. Leahy.

As a result of a family quarrel growing out of a suit of three sons to contest the will of the late Mrs. Edward Devoey, which left the bulk of the property to their sister, Mrs. Mary E. Cartwright, there was an altercation at the home of Charles L. Devoey, one of the sons, at 2837 Cates avenue, about 5:30 p. m. yesterday, leading to the arrest of Devoey and John P. Leahy, attorney, of 3311 Calumet street, on cross-charges of disturbing the peace.

DEMOCRATS MEET TO CONSIDER FIGHT ON HYDE MEASURES

Will Determine Whether to Invoke Referendum Against Bills in Reorganization Program.

The Executive Committee of the Democratic State Committee met today at the Planters Hotel to determine whether the referendum shall be invoked against the bills passed by the Legislature in Gov. Hyde's reorganization program.

A committee of eight Democratic members of the Legislature, four Senators and four Representatives, met with the Executive Committee. There was also an interested audience of Democrats, including a number who will be legislated out of office if the bills pass.

Among the State Democratic officeholders present are E. L. Barnhouse, State Pure Food and Drug Commissioner, whose office would be abolished, and Tim Birmingham, Game and Fish Commissioner, whose job would not be abolished. Former Governor Gardner also was there.

State Grain and Warehouse Commissioner Bradshaw submitted a statement on the cost of operating the new State Agricultural Department, showing that the appropriation for 1921 and 1922 under the consolidation bill is $405,000, an increase of $143,600 over that for 1919 and 1920.

Appropriations for other departments placed under the Director of Agriculture by the consolidation bill, he showed, brought the total up to $705,730, and with the administration expenses of the department, $1,062,725. This is an increase, he says, of $356,995 over the total appropriations for these departments for the two preceding years.

If a referendum is resorted to it must be invoked within 90 days from the date of adjournment of the Legislature, March 31. It is estimated that 75,000 to 80,000 signatures would be required, about twice as many as ever before, due to full suffrage.

THREE EAST ST. LOUIS OFFICIALS ARE REMOVED FROM OFFICE

Position of Another Abolished—Men
Had Been Prominent in Union

The East St. Louis City Council today passed a resolution removing from office three city officials who have been prominent in East Side union labor circles, and abolishing the position of a fourth.

All the men were employed in the Department of Public Works and Buildings, of which Commissioner Michael J. Whalen, himself a labor leader, is the head. Whalen demanded a reason for the removals, and said the only complaint he had heard against the men was that they had been organizers, and two of them candidates, of the Farmer-Labor party in East St. Louis prior to the November election. Commissioner Veatch replied that he and the remainder of the Council didn't regard it necessary to give their reasons.

Whalen was the only Commissioner of the five to vote against the resolution.

The men removed were A. H. Curtis, Building Commissioner; Park Hammond, Plumbing Inspector, and Dan O'Brien, Inspector of Weights and Measures. The office of clerk to the Building Commissioner, held by Frank Johnson, was abolished.

BODY OF WOMAN FOUND IN LAKE IN CARONDELET PARK

Mrs. Charlotte K. Cole, Who Disappeared From Home in Night Clothes, Had Gone Mile to Lake, W

The body of Mrs. Charlotte K. Cole, 35 years old, wife of Samuel Cole, an insurance salesman, of 600 Dover street, who disappeared last night, was found by her husband and neighbors this morning in the Carondelet Park lake.

Dressed in a night gown, kimono and coat and house slippers, the woman had gone a mile to the lake. The coat, which she left on a park bench, was the clew which led to the discovery of the body.

Cole says that at 10:15 o'clock last night his wife went to her bedroom and a few minutes later he heard the front door close. He investigated and found that his wife had left the house. He searched the immediate neighborhood and then notified the police and enlisted the aid of neighbors in a more systematic search.

Cole and Julius Kuntz of 314 Elsieberger avenue searched all night in Kuntz's automobile. At 6:15 o'clock this morning they found Mrs. Cole's coat on the park bench, which led to the discovery of the body in shallow water near the shore.

Cole says that a year ago his wife became deranged over a quarrel with some of her friends had been visiting mediums and induced her to go. She became greatly interested and imagined that she had mediumistic powers. Then she complained that spirits were coming to her unbidden and bothering her.

Her husband took her to relatives in Kentucky last May and she remained there until August. When she returned her condition was improved but she retained some interest in spiritualism.

A month ago she gave birth to a child. Cole said this did not affect her mentality unfavorably but on the contrary seemed to add greatly to her happiness. They have another child, a boy of 14.

C. T. L. U. OPPOSES WOMEN'S SLATE FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Body Pledges Support to C.
J. Lammert, Head of Building Trades Council, for Short Term.

CANDIDATES' ATTITUDE TO LABOR DISCUSSED

Some of Those in League of Women Voters' List Said to Favor Open Shop—
Mrs. Price Approved.

Opposition to the five candidates for the Board of Education endorsed by the League of Women Voters and a pledge to work for the election of Charles J. Lammert, president of the Building Trades Council, for the short term, were contained in a resolution adopted yesterday by the Central Trades and Labor Union.

The resolution, introduced by Charles Mason, a delegate from Painters' Union, 115, stated that the slate of the League of Women Voters included advocates of the open shop.
Lammert also is secretary of the Painters' District Council.

Although the resolution requested that members of the affiliated unions, their families and friends vote the names of Stephen M. Wagner, Frank X. Hiemenz, Henry Heier, Mrs. Fannie Bonner Price (for the full term) and Charles J. Lam-mert (for the unexpired term), the discussion which preceded the vote on the matter bore reference only to Christopher W. Johnson, W. Palmer Clarkson and Lammert.

Attitude to Labor Discussed.
Several delegates stated that Johnson, as a director in the Missouri Portland Cement Co., and Clarkson, as president of the Manufacturers' Association of St. Louis, were unfriendly toward organized labor. Thomas J. Coyne, vice president of the Central Trades and Labor Union and a delegate from the Teamsters' Joint Local Council, reminded the other delegates that the Missouri Portland Cement Co. refused to sell building materials for a period of 30 days in 1920 because the teamsters were on a strike.

Mrs. Sarah Spraggon of the Women's Trades Section said that she felt a reluctance in voting for the resolution without mentioning the fact that Mrs. Elias Michael, one of the candidates of the League of Women Voters, was a sister of the late Charles Stix, who during his business career was considered a good friend of organized labor. She also stated that Mrs. Fannie Bonner Price, one of the candidates for whom the resolution requested support, was president of the Women's Chamber of Commerce, and that the organization had never seen fit to have a union label placed on its stationery.

Resolution Adopted.
The resolution, as adopted, was as follows:
"Whereas, the League of Women Voters, which came into existence principally through the support
given the cause of woman suffrage,
has aligned itself with the advocates
of the open shop in support of a so-called nonpartisan ticket containing the names of candidates who were nominated by petitions for the full and unexpired terms as members of the Board of Education, all of whom are opposed to the principles of organized labor; and

"Whereas, the public schools are the institutions for the education and advancement of the children of the wage-earners, and of right should be under supervision and direction of men and women who are in sympathy with the aims and objects of the wage-earners whose ambition is to secure the very best training for their children in the public schools;
therefore, be it

"Resolved, that the Central Trades and Labor Union does hereby declare its opposition to the candidacy
of Mrs. B. F. Bush, Mrs. Elias Michael, H. A. Rosekopf and Christopher
W. Johnson for the full term and W.
Palmer Clarkson for the unexpired term for members of the Board of Education, and requests members of the affiliated unions, their families and friends to write in the names of Stephen M. Wagner, Frank X. Hie-menz, Henry Heier, Mrs. Fannie Bonner Price (for the long term) and Charles W. Lammert (for the

Delegates to Convention.
Miss Olive King, secretary of the Waitresses' Union, David Kreng,
secretary and organizer of the Central Trades and Labor Union, and Charles Thompson of the Teamsters' Union were elected delegates to the convention of the State Federation of Labor which is to be held at St. Joseph May 16.

Committees reported donations from local unions of $3571 for the fund of $50,000 being raised for the charities under the management of the Rev. Father Timothy Dempsey and $955.30, from March 13 to last Saturday, for the Waitresses' Union.
The total of the contributions to the waitresses' fund since Oct. 1 was announced as $10,012.92.
The Street Car Men's Union today pledged its support to Lammert without making any reference to any of the other candidates for the Board of Education. Mayor Kiel dropped in at the meeting and was introduced by President Nelson. The Mayor said that he was glad to meet the street car men, but made no political address.

Dr. Aked to Preach on Lansing's Book.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 28.—
Dr. C. P. Aked, pastor of the First Congregational Church, announces that next Sunday night he will preach on "The Confessions of Robert Lansing." "Mr. Lansing's book on the peace conference at Paris is one of the most tragic books I have ever read," Dr. Aked said. "It will be read a hundred years hence as a study of the human soul." It contains the confessions of a man who set down in his diary from day to day that certain things were wrong

and that he acquiesced in them,
knowing that they were wrong."

HAPPY MEDIUM

Henry Ward Beecher once delivered an eloquent lecture on apple pie.

"But, Oh! be careful of the crust!" he exclaimed. "Let it not be like putty,

"Nor so flaky that one holds his breath while eating, for fear of blowing it away!"

A happy medium that has made the apple pie served at CHILDS famous from coast to coast.

Delicately spiced apples between deliciously crisp crusts.

LINGER LONGER LETTY DOES NOT HESITATE

Charlotte Greenwood Keeps Musical Comedy Moving at Fast Clip.

Charlotte Greenwood, the elongated and limber comedienne with the persistent smile, came to the Shubert-Jefferson last night for a week's visit, bringing along "Linger Longer Letty," a musical comedy which is not overburdened with good music, but which is checkfull of the sort of comedy which kept the big Sunday night audience in roars of laughter. Miss Greenwood herself is funny—funny to look at as a starlet—and she knows how to capitalize her peculiar talents. Also she knows how to look pretty, when she wants to, and "Linger Longer Letty" is a very pleasing entertainment.

As Letty, the ugly duckling of a family of several girls, Letty is a sort of a modern Cinderella upon whom the rest of the family depends for everything from strawberry tarts to the father's necktie. When she puts her foot down—and Miss Greenwood has some foot—everything in the household halts. Along about the end of the first act Letty does put her foot down for keeps and decides that the time has come to be a real lady like her sisters.

She sends for men dressmakers, New York milliners and beauty experts and while she is being made over and brought up to date she has the same sort of work done on a young man who also needs some overhauling. The man, Jim, a sailor, thinks he is in love with Letty's sister, but in the end he finds that it was Letty he cared for all the time and everything ends as it should. That is all that there is to the story, which is more consistent than the plot of most musical shows. Miss Greenwood is on the stage most of the time in the three hand-somely set acts and she never lets the interest or the comedy lag for an instant. Her supporting company is excellent, with Little Billy, a midget, getting all the honors which do not fall to the star, Robert Higgins, as the sailor Jim, is clever, and there is a large and pretty chorus.

SPRING SEASON IS THE BLOOD TONIC SEASON

Be Sure About Your Blood Condition—If You Are Pale and Run-Down You Need Gude's Pepto-Mangan, the Best Blood Tonic.

MAKES BLOOD RICH AND RED

Foremost as a Blood-Builder for 30 years—Begin Taking It Today and Notice the Improvement.

Find out just where you stand this Spring. Is your health good or bad? There is no half way. You may think you are well enough if you are able to get around every day. But are you enjoying robust health? Are you as full of vigor as you should be? Spring is the time to ask yourself these questions. You are not able to overhaul the human system the way you can an engine. But you can tell whether you are not in good trim. For example, if you are like so many people now, feeling drowsy and listless and tired—if you find no pleasure in living, little interest in your work, and if you are pale and wan, you'll find your blood is not good. You need a blood tonic.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan is the best you can take. It gives new life to the red corpuscles in your blood by increasing the supply of oxygen to all the cells in your body. The poison or waste matter is thrown off and your blood is purified and strengthened. The result is that you get your health on a sound basis and you have no doubts about how you feel. You know you are well. It is unmistakable, because you eat heartily, sleep well, and feel full of vigor. Get Gude's Pepto-Mangan from your druggist. He sells it in tablet form or liquid form, so that you can take whichever is most convenient. They have the same medicinal value. Be sure you get the genuine Gude's Pepto-Mangan, with the name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" on the package.

BISHOP DANIEL S. TUTTLE PREACHES EASTER SERMON

Bishop Minister, 54 Years Old,
Delivers Address at Christ Church Cathedral.
Bishop Daniel S. Tuttle, who is 64 years old, preached his annual

Easter sermon yesterday morning in Christ Church Cathedral. His theme was "The Natural and the Spiritual Body." He said in concluding:
"Because there was an Easter and a resurrection of the body we are comforted and strengthened in our faith. We may picture no vast impersonal submergence of our ego in the cold magnitude of eternity, but instead may be assured that, clothed

in the form of our natural bodies, bodies of flesh and rarer stuff most certainly, yet still the "I" of each of us, we shall meet the final Easter.
That is the message of Easter and of Christianity."

"THE STORM" PROVES TEMPEST IN A TEACUP.

Triangle of Passion, With Forest
Fire Trimmings, More Comedy
Than Melodrama.

BY RICHARD L. STOKES.
FOR some years one has been hearing of Langdon McCormick's patented forest fire, as either being in Vancouver or about to be. Last night it arrived at the American Theater with a play built around it under the name of "The Storm."
This is designated in the program as a melodrama, but there is an unintentional comedy.

The confagration puts in appearance at the end of the third act,
with a considerable combustion of red fire, with the shrieking of wind and the roar of flames simulated by noise-machines, with clouds of ver-million vapors seeping through the floor of the stage, with trees, their interiors glowing red and yellow through longish windows in the back, crashing down, and with a futuristic spectrum in violent eruption on the back transparency, like the explosion of bombs in a paint-factory. The spectacle was greeted with applause.

Two acts earlier we had been introduced to the rivals whose alleged tornado of passion drives the play. The name—Burr Winton and David Stewart. Doubts of the latter's morals were excited at once, on discovering that his hand was always glorious from the brush and trimmed
according to the latest temperal artistry, however many the months
during which he had been buried deep in the Canadian wilds. His immaculate grammar and London
accent—when he remembered it—tended to confirm the most sinister suspicions, but when he began to speak of great cities, opera houses and symphony concerts, we knew that we were in the presence of a villain of the highest type.

Wild and Primitive Calahad.
But that Burr would prove a Roland, Calahad and Saint Anthony rolled into one could no longer be doubted when he had been heard to emit his rancorous, knightly guttural,
to sprinkle his conversation with
"ah's," and to express his preference for the virile spelling, "wuz," instead of the effete one of "was."

There soon arrives the woman in the case, Manette Farchard. Her name and a sort of unimpeachable argot led the hearer to suspect that she was intended to be a French-Canadian. Every doubt was removed when she began to embroider her speech with "dum's." Since "Tiger Rose," all French-Canadian heroines have sworn, and all have been instructed in the art by the same means. It appears that habitation parents, as their earliest concern, train their daughters in profanity, attaining to the "three R's" only as an afterthought.

Chance compels the girl and the two men to spend the winter in a remote Canadian cabin. Both fall in love with her, the one in the sincerely fashion which one would expect from his golf suit and cap,
the other in that chivalrous way
which accompanies trouper tactics
into bouts and a Stetson sombrero.

The winter is passed largely with first one man and then the other giving up the girl to his opponent
with a revolver, which is the signal for the heroine to rush between with weeps and wails, and persuade both men to surrender their weapons,
which they always get back in time for the next gun-play. It is needless to say which of the rivals wins the girl.

This is not the cast which carried
"The Storm" through prolonged runs in New York and Chicago, and which was headed by Helen McKellar, Edward Arnold and Robert Rendel. The corresponding roles are taken here by Katherine Harden, Ben Taggart,
and Eric Mason. There are only two other characters in the play.
Manette's father, an exemplar smuggler who has the ill-luck to be shot by a member of the Northwest Mounted Police, and a redskin trapper of the noblest sentiments.

RECITAL AT ODEON WELL RECEIVED BY LARGE AUDIENCE

Numbers by Gusskoff, Stedman and Mrs. Kriegerbauer Frequently Encores.

Good music, pleasantly performed, was heard at the recital given yesterday afternoon at the Odeon by Michel Gusskoff, concertmaster of the Symphony Orchestra;
H. Max Stedman, first cellist of the orchestra, and Mrs. David Krieger-bauer, pianist. In view of unfavorable weather, the attendance was unexpectedly large.

Gusskoff brought forward a little-known concerto by Vivaldi, the one in G minor for violin, which abounds
in the graceful and elegant melody of the old Italian school. It was excellently played, with a breadth and richness of tone not always noted before in the young violinist's performances. Two recent guest conductors were represented in his smaller pieces—Samuel Gardner with "From the Cane Brake," and Dirk Fech with his "Air Triste,"
which Gusskoff played some months ago at his Astorian Hall recital. Both were well received, and Gardner's nostalgic spiritual was encoored.

Stedman exhibited his wizardry of technique in a "Duo Brillante" for violin and piano, in several Pepper numbers, and in a gavotte
of his own writing, which skipper nimbly from the lowest notes of the Instrument to the highest diapasons, movements from Mendelssohn's

The program concluded with two in D Minor.

SENATE COMMITTEE FINES SHORTAGE OF 10,000,000 HOUSES IN THE COUNTRY

10 BILLS RECOMMENDED COVERING FOUR MAIN NEEDS, TO RELIEVE THE SITUATION

Immediate Objectives Would Be Better Transportation, Fuel at Fair Prices, Home Credit on Loans and Full Data on Housing Methods.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, March 28.—An exhaustive report on the housing shortage, estimated at 10,000,000 houses, was made public today by the Senate Committee on Reconstruction, together with 10 definite recommendations of Federal measures which the committee believes vital to the economic well-being of the country. The committee has reached the conclusion, after several months' investigation through questionnaires, research of experts covering the building situation in the United States, England and France, and the holding of hearings in most of the principal cities of the country, that four main requirements must be met by legislation if the housing shortage, which is steadily growing, is to be overcome.

These requirements are: 1. Better transportation. 2. Abundance of fuel. 3. Home credit on loans. 4. Full information on the best methods of construction and of city planning. The 10 bills prepared by the committee are intended to satisfy these needs. Private enterprise must be depended upon to meet the crisis, the report says, but the Federal Government, as well as states and municipalities, must bear its full share of the burden.

"Government Must Aid."
"The Government," says the committee, "is an organization to govern, not to build houses or operate mines or run railroads or banks. It is the Government for the general welfare of the people, however, and it should use its governmental powers to aid and encourage private enterprise."

The report is signed by the chairman of the committee, Senator Charles McNary of New York, and by Senators Edge of New Jersey and Kenyon of Iowa, all Republicans. It is submitted in pursuance of a resolution adopted by the Senate last April, directing the committee to inquire into the general building situation and to recommend measures "to stimulate and foster the development of construction work in all its forms." The committee finds that from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000 will be necessary to provide the structural facilities which would have been in use but for the war. Included in this sum for every 100 houses is the estimated need of the railroads, $5,000,000,000 for the building of 1,000,000 houses at $5,000 each, and "several billion dollars" for public utilities, highways and waterways. "Until this construction has taken place," the committee says, "the nation must do without conveniences to which it was formerly accustomed."

Figures on 1919 Building.
Statistics gathered by the committee indicate the serious character of the housing shortage. In 1919, it is estimated, there were 110,415 families in the United States for every 100 houses. In 1920, 121 families for every 100 houses. Residential construction from 1915 to 1918 was but 45 per cent of normal; in 1919, 58 per cent of normal, and in 1920, 37 per cent. The present shortage of houses is estimated at slightly more than 10,000,000, and the prediction is made that it will increase to 100,000,000 in five years unless there is a gain in the present rate of construction. In Missouri and Western Kansas, 62 per cent less residential building was noted in 1920 than in 1919.

The report quotes a statement by the American Health Association, composed of commissioners of Boards of Health of the large cities, that "the present housing situation is a real menace to the public health of this country." A survey made by the association showed that overcrowding in all the cities that were studied, between 20 to 30 per cent of their population being affected.

Transportation as Factor.
Inadequate transportation services and freight rate increases, which in many instances have been higher on building materials than on other commodities, are blamed by the committee as one of the chief causes of the housing shortage. Utilization of the great waterways of the country to relieve railroad congestion and co-operation between the railroads and the waterways are urged by the committee. On this point the committee says:

"While the time has passed when we should longer waste public money in attempts to keep water navigation open in creeks and rivers more practically served through rail transportation, Congress should be more liberal in its appropriations for the harbor improvements of the great cities which constitute the water gateways connecting our foreign and coastwise shipping with inland transportation. Certain inland waterways which are natural arteries of inland transportation should be brought to an early completion in order to relieve the railroads of the unnecessary burden of heavy and slow-moving freight."

Benefit of River Shipping.
The committee has considered

Striking Points in Report of Senate Reconstruction Committee

THE United States is short of proper housing by more than 10,000,000 habitations; if the rate of building during the last six years should continue until 1926, the shortage would be 2,000,000. The City Plan Commission of St. Louis reports a shortage of 10,000 homes in that city. New building of the last four years has added accommodations for only 3500 families, while the population has grown by 7500 families.

Overcrowding in cities has forced thousands of families into insanitary and dangerous quarters; has resulted in marked increase in infant death rate; has propagated and spread tuberculosis.

Coal Situation.
No coal shortage actually existed in 1920; even had there been a real shortage it would not have excused the exorbitant prices that were charged.

With the increase in the price of coal there has gone a decline in its quality.

The extreme prices paid for coal were profiteering prices, and not even the coal trade was heard to defend them.

A coal operator before the Committee on Manufactures admitted that the coal profiteering in 1920 may have cost the American consumer $200,000,000, or even $600,000,000.

While operators attempted to throw the blame for high prices on small operators, wagon mines, or "high cost" mines, testimony before the committee was uncontradicted that many large concerns took profit margins in 1920 far above the margins of any previous year. Payment of excess profits taxes did not excuse profiteering, and amounted to a payment of the mine operators' and operator-brokers' taxes by coal consumers, many of whom could ill afford it.

Co-operation between the railroads and waterways is most urgently needed, not only for increased tonnage, but also for the delivery of economic advantage.

Inland waterways which are natural arteries of inland transportation should be brought to early completion, to prevent the railroads of the unnecessary burden of heavy and slow-moving freight.

The total expenditures necessary to meet the requirements of several of the more important waterways, together with the cost of harbor improvements, would be a small sum compared with the estimated requirements of the railroads, and a small sum compared with the loss to the people through last year's coal speculation.

Gradual failure of the rapid transit systems of the country tends toward the remaking of the slums. Decentralization of population becomes more and more imperative.

On February 4, 1921, 5997 miles of electric railways were in the hands of receivers, representing $23,429,294 of securities, or 17 per cent of the total valuation of the electric railways in the United States.

Misdirection of Credit.
Loans have been available to make possible the hoarding of public necessity to the health and very life of nearly all of the people of the United States, it follows inevitably that anything which seriously affects the coal, either in its reasonably raising the price thereof or in cutting off the actual supply in any portion of the country, approaches a public calamity.

The committee does not advocate any general regulation of the coal industry, but favors measures to eliminate flagrant abuses. It says: "Wisely to act in control of interstate and foreign commerce, fairly to conserve the interests of the public without injury to those of coal miners and operators, the legislative and executive branches of the Government need systematically gathered and carefully analyzed statistics of the fullest sort in respect to the coal industry. The public, irritated over the high cost and unsatisfactory supply of coal and the high railway rates (in part dependent) upon the cost of operation, of which fuel cost is a large factor, is entitled to know whether the burden upon every household and every manufacturer is fair, or whether profiteering is going on, and it turns, not to the government of the states, but to the Government of the nation for its information. The committee has recommended a bill to authorize the securing, collecting and publishing of information with respect to the coal business. It believes that the predominantly national character of the business, its national importance and the extent to which it is subject to national action, both legislative and executive, warrant this bill and bring it within the power of Congress under the Constitution."

Government Subsidy Not Favored.
Governmental subsidies, to absorb the extra costs of building through funds raised by general taxation, are not favored by the committee. To follow this line of least resistance, as England is attempting to do, would mean, the committee holds, a lowering of the moral and economic standards of the country. "It is an insult to the ingenuity and enterprise of the American people," the committee says, "to assume that structural and material costs cannot be satisfactorily reduced. If there is anything in which the American people have confidence it is in their own ingenuity and low-cost quantity production. Why is it, then, that the ingenuity which has reduced the cost of all mechanical appliances has not functioned during the past two years and has not manifested itself to such an extent in structural development as it formerly did in mechanical development?"

Widespread Unemployment.
"The ingenuity which has reduced the cost of all mechanical appliances has not functioned during the past two years because it has been diverted from normal employment through the misdirection of credit to the production of certain commodities beyond the saturation point of demand; and because steady operation of industry has been interrupted and the cost of industrial operations has been increased through failures in coal and power supply and through failure of transportation, and through inflated profits. These factors have also involved losses in labor turnover, and in the failure to secure the maximum production of individual, either through misdirection or his lack of interest. They have now finally resulted in an increasingly widespread unemployment.

Structural development, ingenuity has not manifested itself as it formerly did in mechanical development because structural development has taken place by fits and starts. Employers have not been able to organize for continuous work, and hence labor has not been trained or compensated in such industries as it has been in those which have greater continuity of operation. Through nonuniform building codes and through lack of exchange of knowledge of improved practices, the standardization and interchangeability of parts have not reached the degree of perfection which has been reached in mechanical processes, continuously conducted by trained organizations. It is not possible to form an estimate of the efficiency which may be expected in construction when it is allowed to function continuously.

Three Million Men Idle.
"Three million idle men are now walking the streets while the nation is suffering from a housing shortage, from inadequate transportation facilities—railways, highways and waterways—and with untold energy from undeveloped water power awaiting utilization."

Railroad priority orders, the report declares, have delayed the carrying of structural materials and through delay rendered more hazardous and expensive building construction. As a means of decreasing the cost of building, the committee would amend the transportation act so that the Interstate Commerce Commission might not decide, without hearing an emergency which would give preference of priority to shipments.

Situation of Public Utilities.
The gradual failure of the rapid transit systems of the country is noted by the committee, which says this condition is tending toward the remaking of city slums. Betterments necessary to bring the services of electric railways, gas and electric light and power companies back to the pre-war standard would require an estimated total of $2,000,000,000. The committee quotes a report of the American Electric Railway Association, that out of 44,000 miles of electric railways in the United States, December 31, 1920, 5339 miles were in the hands of receivers, 1600 miles had been abandoned and 900 miles had been torn up and junked. It was estimated that the number of miles in the hands of receivers had grown to 4,121, the number of miles in the hands of receivers had grown to 4,121.

The question of placing electric lines and other public utilities on a basis of public ownership, as provided in the case of the railroads, for proper adjustment of rates to operating costs and capital investment.

Misdirection of Credit.
Misdirection of credit toward the financing of enterprises producing luxuries and consumable goods, and away from enterprises providing housing and transportation, is seen by the committee as another prime factor holding back the rehabilitation of the country. Where loans for the development of the national resources, for home-building and transportation facilities have been available for the maintenance of high prices through the hoarding of foodstuffs. The nation might now be well on the way toward economic recovery from the war, the committee says, if the usual amount of credit had been directed to capital investment rather than to the speculative and diverted to consumables and trading.

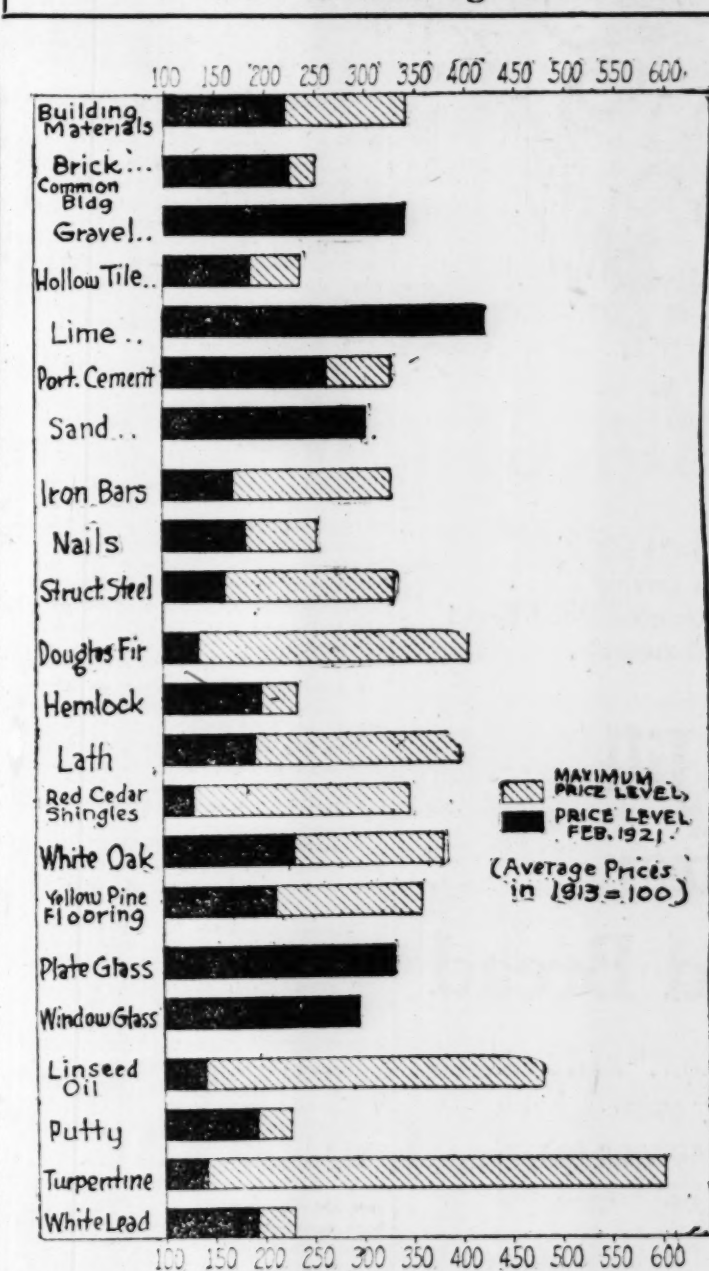

While deprecating the tendency toward tax exemptions, the committee feels that certain exemptions which it proposes are temporarily necessary to induce investment in construction. The insistent drift of money toward tax-exempt securities, it declares, makes it imperative that steps be taken to make housing investments equally attractive.

Taking up wholesale prices of general commodities, the committee states that if the decline now manifest should continue for another seven months at about the present rate, prices would be down to pre-war levels. The report adds, however, that this is "inconceivable," for the reason that we have outstanding some $20,000,000,000 more in Government bonds than before the war, and our gold supply, on which our currency is based, is several times greater than the pre-war supply. "So the probability is," the committee concludes, "that the fall in prices will very soon become more gradual."

Hope for Stabilized Prices.
The hope is expressed that prices may become stabilized at a proper level as a factor in our present housing shortage. The issuing of tax-exempt securities in an attempt by various governmental agencies to reduce the extra cost of credit to themselves has resulted in drawing credit from investment in private enterprises which must be depended upon to provide taxes for Government support.

"Many of these conditions were caused by the war, some were brought to a head by the war, and others are attributable to ill-advised legislation. After two years of marking time we should now be prepared to enter upon an era of reconstruction and national development. Although our backs are now to the past, its experience must serve to illuminate the pathway of the future. Upon the wisdom of our acts during the next two years may depend the well-being of our children."

Ten Bills Recommended.
The 10 bills which the committee recommends to Congress are as follows:

A bill to establish in the Department of Commerce a division for the gathering and dissemination of information as to the best construction practices and methods, technical and cost data, and matters relating to city planning, etc., in order to encourage standardization and improved building practices throughout the country.

A bill to provide for the gathering and publication by existing governmental agencies of current facts as to production, distribution, available supplies, standards of quality, costs and realization of coal.

An amendment to the transportation act directing the Interstate Commerce Commission not to declare without hearings an emergency which will give preference of priority in transportation.

An amendment to the Federal Reserve act to permit the Federal Reserve Board to direct the use of savings and time deposits of national banks for long-term loans, thus giving such deposits greater security and publication by existing governmental agencies of current facts as to production, distribution, available supplies, standards of quality, costs and realization of coal.

A home loan bank bill to provide for district home loan banks which may sell, under Federal supervision, bonds secured by the aggregated loans deposited by the member banks.

Tax Exemption Proposal.
An amendment, limited to five years, to the revenue act of 1913, to provide for the exemption from excess profits and income taxes of the profits on the sales of dwelling houses where such profits, plus an equal amount, are reinvested in dwelling house construction.

An amendment to the revenue act of 1913 to exempt from taxation interest on loans up to $40,000 on improved real estate used for dwelling purposes, when such loans are held by an individual.

An amendment to the revenue act of 1913 limiting the taxation of profits from the sale of capital assets by providing for their taxation as of the year of their sale.

An amendment to the revenue act of 1913 to limit the surtax upon saved income to an amount not in excess of 25 per cent of such income.

Plan to Encourage Saving.
An amendment to the postal savings law increasing the limitation on deposits as to amount and time and Questionnaire to Officers of the Organization Deals With Many Phases of Its Operations.

Continuing her attack upon the St. Louis League of Women Voters which is supporting a group of five candidates for the School Board recently selected by a vote of 330 clubs and other organizations, Mrs. Norman Windsor, of 6131 Etzel avenue, herself a candidate for a place on the Board of Education, today sent a questionnaire to the League of Women Voters detailing in a series of questions her objections to the methods employed by the organization in supporting the candidates of its choice.

Mrs. Windsor was one of the original seven candidates for the School Board who filed petitions with the League of Women Voters, which conducted a poll of local organizations to select five candidates for the places to be filled at the approaching election. In the returns on this poll, Mrs. J. A. Mowrey was eliminated and Mrs. Windsor was tied with W. Palmer Clarkson. In the run-off between Mrs. Windsor and Clarkson, the latter was declared winner by three votes, thus eliminating Mrs. Windsor. The ticket as thus selected, then, was Clarkson, H. A. Roesskopf, C. W. Johnson, Mrs. B. F. Bush and Mrs. Elias Michael.

Text of Questionnaire.
In her questionnaire, the text of which follows, Mrs. Windsor questions the methods of the league in conducting this poll and demands answers to other questions of the league's policy:

"These questions are directed to certain high officials of the League of Women Voters, who possess the information necessary to correctly answer them:

"1. Why do you deny on some occasions and freely admit on others that the League of Women Voters was responsible for the calling of the first meeting held at the Wednesday Club in the interest of women candidates for the School Board?"

"Why, now, do you shift that responsibility for creating the Committee of Fifteen to certain members of the Chamber of Commerce and the Wednesday Club?"

"Who stood the expense of these meetings?"

"Are you aware that thoughtful persons present furnished political trickery or rank stupidity?"

"Is it not apparent that both accounts are correct?"

"Inquiry as to Votes Cast.
"2. Do you not know of the fact that Mrs. Norman Windsor actually received the highest number of votes at this meeting of representatives of women's organizations called for the purpose of suggesting two women best qualified to serve on the Board of Education of St. Louis?"

"Are you willing to make accurate statement as to the votes cast, counted and eliminated on the three occasions in which you took part?"

"What reason can you give for sending letters to clubs stating that Mr. Clarkson's address was on De Rain street instead of 2 Windermere place?"

"3. Do you not admit that instead of declaring without authority that Mrs. Windsor was ineligible that as a body representing intelligent women that you should have secured legal opinions or a ruling by the City Counselor before making such a false statement and attempting to give it widespread publicity in order to 'put over' your slate, and thereby secure endorsements from other organizations interested in the educational welfare of our city?"

"Do you not think that by so doing you were withholding facts and making a farce of what seemed on the face to be honest intentions?"

"Explanation of 'Tie' Demanded.
"4. You surely are not willing to declare that a 'tie' really existed, when you must be aware of the fact that Mrs. Windsor received more votes?"

"5. Are you willing to explain why you delayed sending the notices to some 'minor' clubs, parents' and teachers' associations and others known to have voted for Mrs. Windsor?"

"DON'T stumble, now!" said Jack to Jill, as they started back from the store, which, strange to say, was on top of the hill right near the old well.

"No, I won't stumble any more than you will," Jill replied. "Just because I'm a girl you think I'm weak, but I'm not. I'm as strong as you are, so there."

ANYWAY, they started down with the basket. And they hurried—perhaps because their mother had promised them another slice of Bond Bread and a glass of milk for doing the errand.

Mother probably felt pretty sure that Jack and Jill would get back without a stumble. Children brought up on Bond Bread certainly ought to be strong and steady.

SO they came whistling with their tiny load, little realizing how soon they will grow up, and what heavier loads their shoulders must bear.

But their mother knew—as all mothers do. That's why so many mothers make Bond Bread the principal dish at every meal. For there is strength and health and rugged growth in every ingredient listed on that Bond, from which Bond Bread is named.

Windsor, making them two days later than dated.

"Why did the executive secretary blame this delay on the Postoffice Department, when the postmarks indicated the time of mailing?"

"You realize this delay made returns favorable for the other candidates, do you not?"

"Why are your ward chairmen not informed regarding matters of concern to them and the entire membership?"

"Why this closed corporation among certain officials?"

"Can you give an intelligent explanation of the use you intended to make of the 'stokers' on which were to be printed the names of your 'state'?"

"Are you willing to repeat your instructions as to their use at the polls given to your ward chairmen?"

"Are your officers in the habit of disregarding recorded minutes of motions made and passed, because some higher official decrees?"

"Can you explain the incident regarding the contribution received by you from the Twenty-eighth Ward Cox-Roosevelt Club?"

Questions as to Finance.

"Why did the League of Women Voters feel called upon to pay the filing fee for the individual candidates whom they endorsed, provided such fee of $10 each was required?"

"Is this customary?"

"Are you willing to make known to the membership of the League of Women Voters or to the public in general what items of expenditures are listed under the head 'propaganda'?"

"Is your membership informed as to office expenditures, salaries paid, and nature of services rendered and by whom?"

"When invitations to luncheons are extended and guests pay $1.25 for same, can you give a reasonable excuse for $125 deficit?"

"Do you consider this good business management of funds entrusted to your care?"

"Why do you withhold letters of resignation written in good faith?"

"Are you willing to publish the past Democratic president's resignation from the League of Women Voters?"

"Explain, please, why you disregarded the Democratic vice president and named the independent vice president to succeed Mrs. C. B. Farris?"

"Is this not contrary to your constitution and by-laws?"

"Under the same conditions, would you have appointed the Democratic vice president to succeed the independent president in case she had resigned?"

"What valid excuse can you offer for instructing the executive secretary not to notify certain members entitled to be in attendance at executive meetings?"

"Were you afraid their opinions would conflict with those desiring to hold power?"

"Do you sanction a campaign fund used for electing members to the Board of Education?"

"What amount does the League of Women Voters contribute to this fund?"

"Do you recall that any dominant party, even in its most halcyon days, ever attempted anything so preposterous and bold?"

"Do you think this is in keeping with a group known as 'house cleaners'?"

"Are you willing to publish names of individual contributors to this campaign fund?"

"Hoping that the answers will restore the league to the esteem in which it was once held by the public."

White has had in mind the importance of economy. The cost of the collection of the coal information, the cost of the housing bureau, the supervision of the Federal home loan banks, will constitute no appreciable burden on the Treasury; the results of the various bills proposed, however, in holding down the price of essential materials, in preventing unfair competition and monopoly in coal, and in directing the flow of credit toward the building industry will, the committee believes, cause the prompt construction of the homes so urgently needed."

St. Louis Litigation Referred to Is Suit Against Southern Pine Association.

The St. Louis litigation referred to in the suit filed in the United States District Court here, Feb. 22, by District Attorney Carroll, on authority of the Department of Justice, to enjoin the Southern Pine Association from holding further meetings or continuing its activities in furnishing statistical information to members.

The ground of the suit was the charge that the organization had endeavored to curtail lumber production and fix prices. A hearing of the case was set for March 15, but at that time District Judge Farris disqualified himself, on the ground that he had decided against the lumber interests in a similar suit, while he was on the bench of the State Supreme Court. Presiding Judge Sanborn is to designate a Judge to conduct the hearing of the case.

$100,000 ALIENATION SUIT AGAINST SENATOR

Ralph Henry Cameron of Arizona Brands Action as a "Plain Blackmail."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—In a formal statement today, Senator Ralph H. Cameron of Arizona characterized as "sheer, unadulterated, plain blackmail" a suit filed against him by Edward R. McFarlin of New York asking $100,000 damages for alienation of Mrs. McFarlin's affections.

Papers in the case, Senator Cameron's statement said, were first filed in 1916, and he said no effort at service on him was made until last week.

"Now that I have become a United States Senator," said Cameron in his statement, "those behind this ridiculous suit have evidently decided to attack me in the hope of injuring me by giving widespread publicity to the absurd charges made by them."

"I am prepared to fight this suit with both fists fearlessly and in the open."

The statement said Senator Cameron had met Mrs. McFarlin once in the observation car of a train between Chicago and San Francisco in 1912 before her marriage, had met her twice since and met her husband once.

Brief Petition Filed in the Supreme Court of New York City.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Ralph Henry Cameron, United States Senator from Arizona and a millionaire mining man, is named as defendant in a $100,000 alienation suit brought in the Supreme Court by Edward R. McFarlin.

Summons and complaint—devoid of all but a meager outline of charges—were filed Saturday, but the identity of the Ralph Henry Cameron mentioned was not established until yesterday. The suit, it is said, was made by both sides to keep secret the story. James H. Hickey of counsel for McFarlin would not discuss the suit. His reply to questions was merely that the principals were wealthy.

Briefly, the charges state that Senator Cameron exerted "undue influence over Mrs. Margaret McFarlin in 1916," and that he has "harbored and detained her."

Inquiry yesterday developed that the Senator is 35 years old, married, and has a son 24 or 27 years old. He has extensive financial and political interests and a career that, for picturesqueness, rivals any in fiction. In this city he is president of the Cameron-Michael Co., at 8 West Fortieth street.

All indications are that McFarlin and his wife are much younger than the Senator. The McFarlins, according to the complaint, were married in 1913 and lived together in Stoneham, Mass., until 1916. But investigation in Stoneham among old residents and officials found no one who remembered the couple. Senator Cameron's representatives hazarded a guess that McFarlin is in Boston.

Career of the Defendant.

Contrasted with the secrecy surrounding the story are numerous newspaper records that tell the extraordinary career of the Senator. When he was delegate to Congress from Arizona, his autobiography read:

"Ralph Henry Cameron, Republican, of Flagstaff, was born at Southport, Me., received a common school education, which was augmented later by night schools and studies; is interested in mining and stock raising and is the locator and builder of the Bright Angel Trail (the Cameron Trail) into the Grand Canyon of Colorado, in Arizona, which he is still maintaining; moved to Arizona in 1883; was Sheriff, Coconino County, for three terms and served a term as a member and one term as chairman of the Board of Supervisors."

He spent 12 years building the trail into the Grand Canyon of Colorado, a perilous engineering feat. Some indication of the man is given in his story of the trail. The idea of its necessity came to him when he was prospecting. In his own words, he described once the hardships he had his men endure, thus:

"Perpendicular rocks hundreds of feet high had to be scaled and blasted away. In building what is known as Jacob's ladder it was necessary for the workmen to be swung down with ropes a hundred feet to drill holes into the rocks. Then when everything was ready for the blast the workmen would be pulled up out of harm's way."

Long Struggle With Railroad.

To all this add a long struggle with a powerful railroad corporation for his property; many and bitter political fights and, finally, the steady rise to financial and political success. From all reports the Senator is a powerful political figure in Arizona.

The other two of the pictured triangle remained in obscurity yesterday. McFarlin specified in the complaint, "New York City on Sept. 13, 1916, on a train of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad leaving New York City for Boston at about midnight on Sept. 13 and on Sept. 15 at Stoneham."

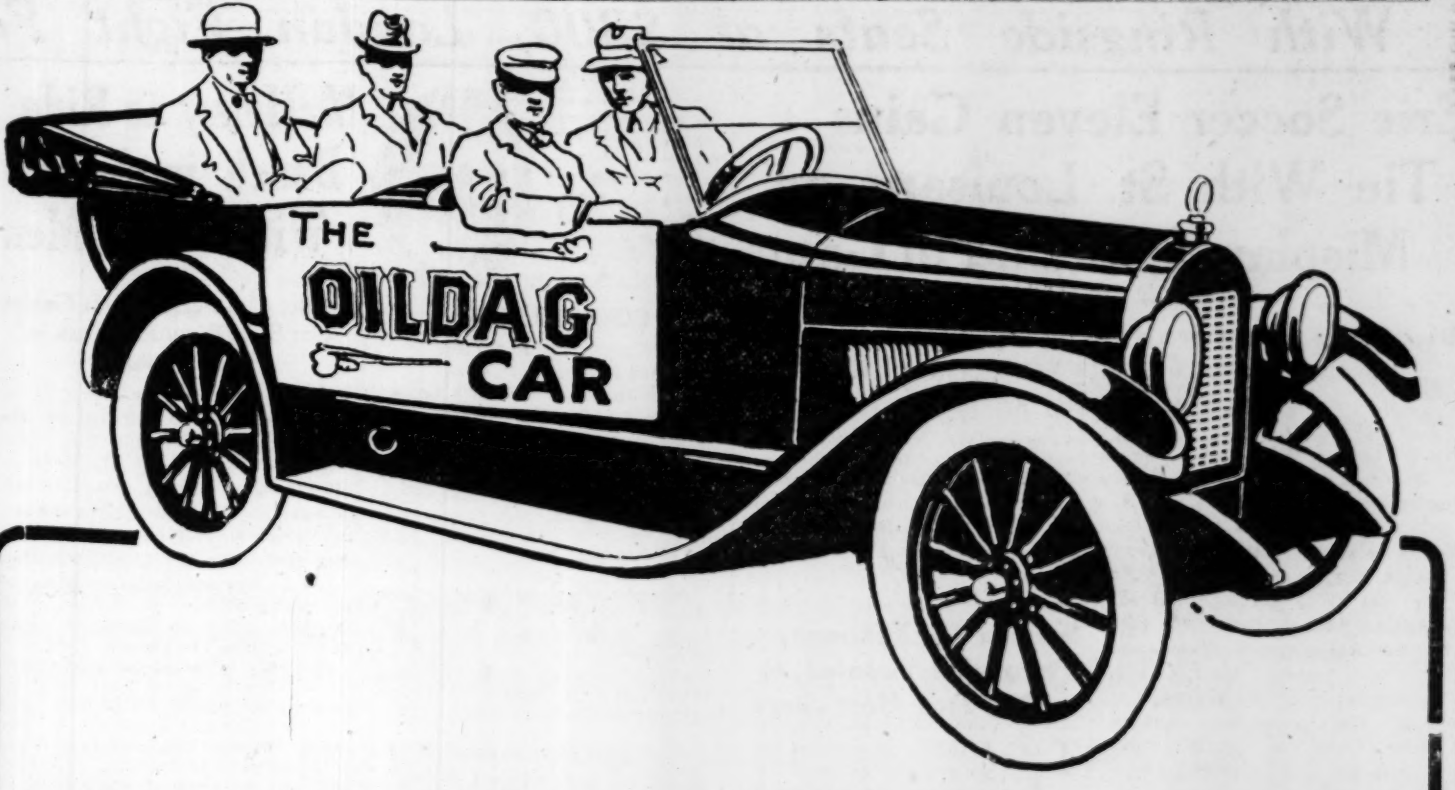

A business associate of Senator Cameron expressed amazement at the suit.

"The Senator," he said, "is a regular fellow, but I know he is above that sort of thing. Looks like a mistake somewhere to me."

$5000 Robbery in Des Moines.

DES MOINES, Ia., March 28.—Four masked men blew open the safe of the Des Moines Drug Co. yesterday morning after binding and gagging two employees and escaped with $5000 in cash, Liberty bonds and narcotics.

This Car Will Run 15 Miles With Its Crank Case DRAINED

The famous Oildag Lubrication Test will be repeated in St. Louis next Friday, April 1, beginning at 10 a. m.

The touring car shown in this picture will be used. Its crank case will be drained thoroughly, every possible drop of lubricant being removed. The car then will be driven fifteen miles or more at ordinary touring speed and no stops except as made necessary by traffic conditions.

Not a drop of lubricant will be applied to motor or wearing surfaces during the trip. Their only lubrication will be the Graphoid Coating deposited on them by Oildag.

At the end of the test run, no part will be found damaged or even overheated. Every wearing surface will have been completely protected by the Graphoid film resulting from a steady use of

OILDAG

The Liquid Graphite Lubricant

The original "Oildag Car" has been in service 21 months. It has made the Oildag Test Run—with crankcase drained—13 times, the trips ranging from 11 to 22.2 miles. And it has never been "out of commission"—never needed attention by a mechanic—because it has never been lubricated by anything except Oildag.

The car used in this test has been run 2500 miles with Oildag.

How much has friction cost YOU in repair bills in the last 21 months—or even the last six months? You'd have saved that money—and your car would be in better condition today—if you had used Oildag, the Liquid Graphite Lubricant, instead of ordinary oil. Oildag is a high grade, neutral motor oil containing Acheson Liquid Graphite in perfect suspension. Acheson Graphite—a product of the electric furnace—is the ONLY manufactured graphite. It is neither powder nor flakes, but actually fluid. This graphite content of Oildag is deposited on all wearing parts as a protective coating, combining with the metal and forming an antifriction surface smoother than polished glass. Oildag DOES NOT stop or interfere with the oiling system.

The test run will begin and end at F. C. Meyer Motor Co., 16th and Chestnut.

Any interested person is invited to examine the Oildag car, both BEFORE and AFTER the trip. Remember the time—next Friday, April 1st.

INDICTED ST. LOUIS
BASEBALL BETTORS

Carl Zork and Ben Franklin
Will Voluntarily Go to Chicago and Give Bond of $48,000.

Carl Zork and Benjamin Franklin, the St. Louisans who were indicted at Chicago Saturday charged with being the organizers of the alleged plot through which Chicago White Sox players were said to have thrown the 1919 world series to Cincinnati, yesterday volunteered to the Post-Dispatch a joint statement, made in the presence of their attorney, A. M. Frumberg, in which they made general denial of the charges and announced they would go to Chicago this week without extradition proceedings, and give $48,000 bond for their appearance for trial.

Zork and Franklin were indicted with 16 other men, including White Sox players, by the Cook County grand jury, following a second investigation into the baseball scandal.

Zork and Franklin told of their participation in wagers on the 1919 world series and their profits and losses in connection therewith, admitted their acquaintance with four men also under indictment, and denied acquaintance with any of the indicted ballplayers.

Both Zork and Franklin also stated in response to a question, that they would not attempt to enter any major league baseball parks until the charges are disposed of in court. They say they expect to be exonerated and that after such exoneration they will demand that the ban against their entering baseball parks be lifted.

Secretary Quinn of the Browns had stated to the Post-Dispatch Saturday that an agreement had been reached by the managers of both local clubs to bar from their games all those men whose names were mentioned as being involved in the baseball scandal.

Zork Declares He Lost on Edits.
When asked for a statement as to their wagers on the 1919 world series, Zork and Franklin said that they originally had wagered together about $1000 against $1000 that Cincinnati would win the series. Zork said he then began "hedging" by betting on Chicago, and that in the end he was loser from $500 to $1500. Zork declared a rumor that he had "double crossed" his friends on wagers, Franklin stated that he had won about $500 on the series.

At several towns which I visited after the series, I learned that the gossip was that I had won from $500 to $1000 on the series," Franklin added. "The fact that I won only $500 shows I couldn't have been in on any fixing. Why, I have bet more than $500 on a single horse race." Frumberg disclosed that following the first indictments returned in the scandal last year, he went to Chicago, where he conferred with Alfred A. Egan, attorney representing Comiskey and assisted the State's Attorney in the investigation. He represented Zork and Franklin at that time. "Austrian told me the State has bent on returning indictments," Frumberg stated. "I submitted affidavits before the Cook County Grand Jury waiving immunity for them. But Zork and Franklin were not wanted as witnesses and were not indicted in the first inquiry.

Zork Did Not Give Evidence.
The statement was made by the Associated Press Saturday that Zork recently supplied evidence to Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball commissioner, which resulted in Gene Paulette being placed on the ineligible list. Zork did not appear before Judge Landis and did not give information about Paulette.

"Then came the indictments last Saturday. Zork and Franklin will voluntarily appear before the proper tribunals in Chicago this week and give bond and demand a speedy hearing, and will not stand for any extraordinary delay on the part of the State."

"I believe that the indictments of Zork and Franklin were impelled by a belief of the prosecuting officials that Zork and Franklin are possessed of information of value to the State against some of the other who are indicted and that the only way to secure their attendance at Chicago at the trial is this indictment."

Franklin was in Tulsa, Ok., Saturday on business when his wife telegraphed him about the indictment and returned to St. Louis yesterday morning to consult Frumberg. Both he and Zork are 42 years old and have lived in St. Louis all their lives. They admit having been associated together in making wagers for years. During the war Franklin, who is in business with his brother at the National Stockyards, had large contracts to supply the allies with horses. Zork is a shirtwaist manufacturer who resides at the Washington Hotel. Franklin resides at 240 Intervale, University City.

Anglo-American Golf.

We remarked last week on the decreasing interest in the innovation of an American contingent at the British open golf championship this year. This may be out again, however, but at present the great golfing interest is the discussion relative to the ball. A great many Britishers are now saying that the Americans "put something over on them" and this is particularly the case of those who favored the Hooper. On the whole, it looks as though British and American golf would never accord either in the matter of balls or clubs. Note the lashing of the Scotchman putter and the present strong feeling about the ball.

Pikers Unearth
Pitching Phenom

De Bolt's Remarkable Showing Against Triple A Solves Bascom's Problem.

If Bill Bascom, coach of the Washington University baseball squad, never believed heretofore in the old saw about the silver lining of each cloud, he became a convert to that truism Saturday.

For the past three weeks Bascom's major care has been his pitching staff. The graduation of Al Marquard, left the Pikeaway squad without an assistant to Capt. Monty Lyon on the hillcock. About five recruits appeared, but created little impression as possible Missouri Valley Conference pennant material. Then it rained Saturday. With the prospect of a sudden diamond Bascom's hurling candidates failed to appear for the scheduled game with Triple A, that is with the exception of Capt. Lyon who is not yet far enough advanced to go nine innings. Bascom looked over his squad and asked, "Who thinks he knows how to pitch?"

It was then that Frank de Bolt, a graduate of Maplewood High School, walked to the pitching box in reply. De Bolt, a sophomore and member of the varsity basketball squad, started shooting them with such velocity at the Triple A batters that Bascom and every member of the Pike nine immediately became interested. Without any preliminary practice all season, he held the 1920 municipal champions to two runs and four hits in five innings. In the fourth, he struck out the entire side.

Speed Is De Bolt's Forte.
De Bolt seems to have solved the pitching question on the hillcock. He has more speed than was shown by any St. Louis pitcher last season and a natural drop of no mean descent. He also showed some knowledge of pitching demeanor while in the box. Following Saturday's contest the personnel of the Washington baseball squad can be named with a fair degree of accuracy. It is likely that Bascom will select the following as his traveling troupe for the season.

Pitchers, Lyon, De Bolt, Scutlock and Trautwein; catchers, Finn, Burke and George Thompson; first base, Shanley; second base, Schieve; shortstop, Wyman and King; third base, Lacey and Linnemeyer; outfielders, Tom Thompson, Berger, Maguolo, Denney, Hurd and Hafner.

The Testman High School team will play the varsity at Francis Field, tomorrow afternoon; while McKinley High will serve as opposition next Saturday. Coach Bascom announces that his team will meet any of the scholastic clubs in and around the city in practice sessions.

Standard Ball Liveller.

In spite of the fact that the new golf balls are not yet ready for the general public, the story will not down that the new ball is a longer flyer than the old. Ninety-nine men out of a hundred will shed no tears over this, no matter what Great Britain may say, nor how the greens committee may be worried as to the further lengthening of courses. And after all the greatest satisfaction to the greatest number is a good thing in golf.

TWO PLACES WITH WATCHMEN ON DUTY ARE ROBBED

Two Men Take Keys and Revolver From Watchman at Oil Supply Depot at 4015 Park Avenue.

SAFE WITH $500 REMOVED IN AUTO

Watchman at 416 South Commercial Street Tied to Chair by Two Men and $8484 in Furs Taken.

Two places were robbed yesterday and this morning where private watchmen were on duty to forestall robbery, and in each instance the watchman was treated with contempt and bound while the thieves operated. About 2:20 a. m. today Edward Tarver of 1429 South Vandeventer avenue, watchman at the Standard Oil Supply Depot, 4015 Park avenue, was accosted by two men with revolvers when making his rounds outside the building and taken to the boiler room, where they took his keys and revolver and then bound him with rope and tossed him under a work bench. With his keys they opened the gate to the grounds and took in an automobile. Then they went to the office and hammered on the safe. There was an explosion, which a later investigation disclosed had probably occurred from dropping a small bottle of nitroglycerin. Failing to open the safe, the men hauled it away in the automobile.

William McDonald, another watchman employed by a concern across the street, heard the explosion and started to investigate. He was met by the robbers, who faced him about and commanded him to stand at attention for five minutes. McDonald obeyed the command while the robbers drove away. He then notified the police, who found Tarver and released him from his bonds. They also found a broken bottle which had evidently contained the explosive. Officials of the company said the safe contained about $100.

Another Watchman Bound. At 8 o'clock yesterday morning Thomas Paulus, 22, of 3328 Lemp avenue, watchman at the Friend Hilde and Fur Co., 418 South Commercial street, went to the front door in response to a knock by a man with a bundle under his arm. The man said he had a package for the firm and when Paulus opened the door the man drew a revolver and commanded Paulus to raise his hands. Then another man joined the first and they bound Paulus to a chair in the office. An automobile was then brought up in the rear of the place, and after making several trips up and down on the elevator, the men departed.

Paulus managed to knock a telephone off a desk and inform the telephone operator of his situation, and the police found him still bound to the chair upon their arrival. After a hasty inventory, Samuel Mines, 3355 Pershing avenue, president of the company, announced the robbers had taken $75 worth of pelts, 75 Canadian wolf hides, 150 beaver skins and 1 case of dressed mink pelts, for a total value of approximately $8484. Watchman Identified as Ex-Convict. Detective Thomas Murphy, in questioning Paulus, recognized him as an ex-convict and looked him up. Paulus was sent to the Mansfield (O.) reformatory for an indeterminate term on Dec. 28, 1917, for stealing an automobile at Columbus, O. He was paroled May 15, 1919, and came to his home here. Seven days later he and another youth were arrested at Lake and Waterman avenues by Detective Murphy, because they were acting suspiciously. Paulus had loaded revolver. He admitted they had held up Linton S. Ferguson of 2011 Virginia avenue the night before and robbed him of $150. Ferguson was sent to the Missouri State Penitentiary and charged with a conspiracy to carry a concealed weapon and sent to prison for two years. He was released Jan. 3 and got the job of watchman Jan. 15. Safe in Jewish Church Broken Open and $180 Taken.

Some time before 7 a. m. yesterday robbers broke open the safe in Congregation Tiferet Israel Temple, Ninth and Wash streets, and took $180. Desks were also broken open, but nothing else was stolen.

The following homes were robbed yesterday during the absence of the families: Joseph F. Sassenbrenner, 3229 Waterman avenue, jewelry and cash, $425; Harry Rittenberg, 3348 Waterman avenue, jewelry, $200; Fred Gerch, 2850 Easton avenue, $150 in jewelry, and John Johnson, 6187 Kingsbury boulevard, $22 and a watch.

Two men were robbed by highwaymen last night. Edward Maher of the Maryland Hotel related two negroes at Twenty-first street and Clark avenue, who robbed him of $20 and a watch, and was slashed on the neck with a knife. He was not seriously injured. Two robbers took $749 from Michael Suggen, 213 Leeper avenue, at Broadway and Leeper.

Shoes valued at $1100 were stolen by "truck burglars" from the store of Samuel Knox, 4817 Macklind avenue, prior to 7 a. m. today. A rear door was "bumped."

Do You Care?

What will become of the money and property you will some day leave behind you? Do you care? Do you intend your wife and children to be the ones who will be provided for? Then consider these questions. Would your wife know how to arrange your business affairs without loss to your own or your associates' interests?

Does she know the difference between a good and bad investment? Would she know how to reinvest income? Are there any relatives who would obtain loans from her—which may never be repaid? Could she resist the appeals of stock promoters who promise "get-rich-quick" returns? Is it fair or wise to leave money in bulk to those who have had but little experience in business?

Come in and let us explain how our Company can manage the money and property you leave for the benefit of your dependants.

Mother of 13 Discusses "Children vs Lapdogs"

Says If More Women Would Look After
Their Homes and Rear Babies There Would Be Fewer Divorces.

"There is a right to all hearts beguiling
A youthful mother to her infant smiling,
Who, with spread arms and dancing feet
And cooing voice, returns its answer sweet."

By FAY STEVENSON.
Is there anything in this world
of ours that can be compared to a helpless baby?

That is the opening sentence of an article sent to The Evening World from an old-fashioned mother of 13 children.

This woman is Mrs. J. A. Boland of Pontiac, Mich. Eleven of her children are now living, the eldest being 24, the youngest three. Mrs.
Boland believes that motherhood is a woman's noblest work and that the woman who is a mother should content herself with maternal duties.

There will be some who read this good mother's philosophies and sen-sibilities who will sniff and shake their heads. Motherhood is not the goal or ambition of the typically modern woman. And yet it sometimes seems that if the woman who dodges maternity, who fondles a lapdog or spends her time at clubs or behind a desk doesn't regret her earlier resolutions when the silver threads begin to appear in her hair. I wonder if she feels as if she had got out of the sweetness out of life.

Read some of the extracts from this old-fashioned mother's article and see what motherhood has meant to her.

She writes:
"How many women there are who don't want to be troubled with babies.
Women want to be leaders in public life rather than leaders of barns or to be mothers."

"If the women of today were compelled to look after the home and the care and rearing of children
there would not be the vast number of divorces that there are today.
Women can't be business women
and mothers."

"The young married woman who says on at business leaves her young girls who need work from obtaining a position."

"If the man starting out can't keep a wife, then he's better remain single."

"I saw the other day where a noted preacher said that one way to stop divorce was not to patronize the moving pictures where such people played. That is one way, but the other is not to employ married women.
There are many beautiful girls who are eager and waiting a chance to make a name for themselves, but these women who do not want to be bothered with babies push them back and the men in business who employ these women are to blame."

"But after all, who is the happiest woman in the whole world? It is the mother, the real mother. It is the woman who knows the joy of a baby's kiss and soft arms about her neck."

"I speak from years of child study and motherhood."

"Nor does a woman know the full meaning of motherhood unless she has a child herself. The child,
mother, or so-called society woman,
who leaves the care of her children
to nurses, gets very little real happiness through her motherhood."

"Then there is the mother who is a travelling man, the man who is away from home. His wife has all her time to dress and parade for the benefit of the other woman's husband. When asked, 'Have you had a baby?' she shrugs her shoulders and looks at you with a baby stare and a 'We never had any.'"

"How many times I have shocked these women by telling them I have had 13 babies."

"The average man who meets an old friend says, 'Well, John, have you a family?' and hears, 'Oh, no.' My wife is in the hospital most of the time."

"But how many think or know the real reason? It is that they do not want to be bothered with a baby."

"And yet the woman who devotes her life to her babies, the woman who has her children because she knows that it is God's will, is the only happy woman on earth."

WALNUT CREAM CANDY

spoon cold water, three-quarters teaspoonful sugar, English walnuts. Put egg, water and vanilla in a bowl and beat until well blended.
Add sugar gradually until stiff enough to knead. Shape in balls, flatten and place halves of walnuts
opposite each other on each piece.
Sometimes all the sugar will not be required.

THE Roman ribbons now displayed are beautiful. A woman looking at some of the other day said to me, 'I don't believe I could wear a black velvet dress like that. In one shop there is a navy blue serge dress which has the V-neck outlined in wide Roman ribbons and there is a girdle of the same.'

Unhappy Marriage, Says God of Love Is Neither Real Nor Sincere.

TITO SCHIPA
MAGGIE TEYTE
FRITZI SCHEFF

It was not long, according to the evidence, before Tito presented himself at the home of Antoinette in Paris, and before he left for South America and the United States, he made certain about the only uncertain thing about his future—
whether romance was to complete his already thriving art. He considered America a great opportunity and confident of artistic triumph on this side of the Atlantic.

She made two ocean voyages with him, and he was with him last year when he was singing in Chicago and New York. When the opera season was over, Schipa went back to the home of his 32-year-old father, in Lecce, Italy, where his bride-to-be joined
him, and there they were married.

The fourth witness is Bruno Zirato,
the faithful secretary of Caruso,
who hardly left the bedside of the aviator in the army, and after he was severely injured in an airplane accident visited him at his father's home. The groom is 24 and the bride is 31. At present he is manager of the subsidiary company of the Sherwin-Williams Paint Co., which is controlled by his father.

"Cupid is not merely an actor," declared Maggie. "Sometimes he plays with one's heart, but eventually he shows his true colors, and brings overwhelming happiness. Just now he has shown me what real love means."

The next witness is Tito Schipa,
the popular young tenor of the Chicago Opera Company, who married his dainty French bride, Antoinette Michel, less than a year ago. Unfortunately, Tito is a shy man, unwilling to testify with words, though his radiant smile when one speaks of his wife is ample testimony to his complete subjugation by Cupid. So Mrs. Schipa will take the stand.

"On March 5—how well I remember the date—I saw my husband as he sang Rigoletto at Monte Carlo," she attests. "And after that," she continues naively, "I noticed his wonderful smile while I was in the dining room of the hotel in which I was staying with my parents. Then there was a ball given one night at the hotel. I met Tito. We danced together, and that began it. It is not true, as the rumor goes, that we met first at the gaming tables, though we did meet there later, and in many other places while he remained at Monte Carlo."

"For He's a Jolly Good Fellow"

By Mary Edington

SECOND INSTALLMENT.

"No—no!" she faltered, in hasty excuse. "A football dinner!"

"A football dinner?" said Brook-
ing. He allowed a certain amount of indignation in his fine eyes and flexible voice. "A football dinner!"

And you are lonely, of course. May I say how glad I am that I happened to drop in?

A pause.
"I am—very glad, too," said Dorothy.

"Then may I sit down?" Brook-
ing said.

She did not know how it was that the evening seemed to have taken to itself wings and fled away.

Brooking knew, because he had juggled similarly with Time frequently before. After the first five minutes, during which loyalty to Stephen had struggled with an overmastering desire for sympathy from any one, they had talked absolutely confidentially. Her tears were dried.
Yes, she had been lonely—very, very lonely.

He said hotly that it was a shameful thing for any man—then apologized for an indiscretion almost committed in the righteous heat of indignation.

Shyly she thought this very quick-
lived, for she was not the type of a woman with whom he was accustomed to conduct intrigues, that he might stay
an hour or so, while away her dull evening, perhaps, of course in the home of seeing Stephen.

She said, a little doubtfully, that she was sure Stephen would be late.

"Are you not expecting him?" he asked, and looked at the clock and slipped to the fire.

Then he told her of the Gibson picture.

"I haven't seen it," she said.

"I'll print it on postcards," said Brooking. "I'll get one and send it to you. Then you will see what you looked like when I came in an hour ago. Have we really known each other an hour? But you mustn't show the postcard to Stephen."

She laughed with him over this.

"I used to collect postcards," she told him, naively, "before I was married. I had nearly 500 in my album.
Stephen laughed at me and said he thought the craze died with Queen Anne, and that album-making was an exploded industry."

"I shall buy an album to hold a thousand for you," said Brook-
ing, softly, looking at her with steady,
dark eyes. "And send you postcards
every day until it is filled—postcards
you mustn't show to Stephen."

She laughed again, but a little nervously, and with a quickened heart-beat under his deliberate accent.

"I—I show him most things," she said.

Again a pause.

She looked at Brook-ing, and he smiled at her. Something indefinable in the dark, clean-shaven, almost ascetic, face set her heart thumping again quite madly. Her crown eyes widened.

"My dear child," said Brook-ing, "but you mustn't expect Stephen to be so expensive."

"Why—why?" she began.

"Your confidence is absolutely charming," said Brook-ing.

He had given her something to think about, she knew it, but he did not want the contemplation of his half-suggestions to fill her mind just then. He led her on to talk of many things. He heard all about the sun in Devonshire, and the garden and the poultry. He told her he loved Devonshire, and she expanded under his interest like a flower in the sun. He heard how Stephen had gone down for a holiday and simply swept her up and brought her back with him to London. He understood how splendid she thought her husband.

They touched again, then, on her loneliness, and she said she, hated London. He said, looking at her, something about Devonshire girls that she hardly understood, except that it was, somehow, a tribute to her own prettiness. Presently he helped her make the coffee she insisted on giving him, and at half-past 10 stood up to go.

She walked with him to the door.
The pink frock fitted her swivel
young figure like a glove, and trailed over the carpet. The face she lifted as she shook hands with him was flushed and alight with excitement and laughter. There were charming dimples in her round cheeks.

"Good-by," she said. "Stephen will be sorry to have miss—"

She stopped. Brook-ing held her hand, smiling a little in a way that just curled up the corners of his fine lips. A very dense of suggestion, of mockery, of mischief, of—she hardly knew what—stared from his dark eyes into her suddenly arrested stared ones.

"But—but—" she stammered.
"You are going to tell him of this—impertinent invasion—of mine?"

She gaped a little.

"What do you mean?"

"Don't you like secrets?" he asked.

"I don't understand," said Dorothy, faintly.

"My dear Mrs. Carter," said Brooking, "that is the correct reply, correctly made. Having administered that small sop to the conventions—can we be so well bewildering her, though she was suddenly scarlet—can we make a little compact together? Such a harmless compact—two lonely people trying to form a mutual benefit society just to themselves. Why bring Stephen in at all? Stephen with his clubs, and his old pals, and his football dinners."

"But—but—" she stammered.
"You—you—came—expecting to see him tonight."

"I knew he was out," said Brook-ing, softly. "His steady eyes meeting mine. 'Good night, I came to see you. Good night.'"

"But—but—" she stammered.

The flat was in darkness when Carter came home from Streatham.
He switched on the light, stumbled, nevertheless, over an apparently very superfluous lamp, swore at it softly
but heartily in a somewhat thickened voice, and felt a little glad that Dorothy had evidently gone to bed. No doubt, however, she was still awake, listening for him to come in,
and ready to retail her own small evening news and to hear his.

He went on into the bedroom, but she lay, like a pretty child, her brown hair tumbled over the pillow, asleep.

The Gibson postcard came by the second post the next morning—after Stephen had gone out—enclosed in such a letter as Brook-ing knew very perfectly how to write. It brought a little excitement into the dull day.

The excitement of a secret—for she had not told Stephen—she remembered resentfully that he had "his clubs, and his old pals, and his football dinner" as an enervating factor,
while she had only one small secret
extra long, and that this morning
friendship—she felt so honored by Louis Brook-ing's friendship—had certainly progressed with wonderful strides.

"No," she had not.

"Till now," he supplemented, as if stating an incontrovertible fact,
rather than making a suggestion.

Dorothy accepted it without controversy, owning that today had been
extra long, and that this morning
friendship—she felt so honored by Louis Brook-ing's friendship—had
certainly progressed with wonderful
 strides.

"We must see as much as we can
of each other in the week that is left to us," said Brook-ing. Put thus, the thing appealed to her as nearly pathetic. "You will let me drop in as often as I can, and cheer up your lonely evenings, and you'll talk to me as you'd talk to that foolish husband of yours, if he'd only properly realize his astounding luck—his astounding luck! I realize mine very fully, you know that, don't you—my dear? You don't mind me calling you dear, do you? Because we're going to be good friends—it's only that we haven't fuddled away weeks and months on preliminaries—good night, you'll hear by the way, I'm quite an old one of Stephen's."

He timed his good night carefully to forestall the finishing of that billard match. Dorothy voiced no regrets for Stephen. They shared the secret. It was a dear little conspiracy.

Brooking gave himself a week.
That week had taught him to covet Stephen Carter's wife, but he was not going to postpone his Eastern tour, hence the time limit, which he set with his usual method in confidential affairs, without the smallest doubt of himself or her.

On Thursday night he excused himself from a "Bozart" dinner
on the ground of business preparations for his forthcoming departure.
Eight o'clock found him at the Carter's.

Dorothy sat in the drawing room
alone and in tears.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY
By James J. Montague.

NO HOPE.
We fancied in our folly
The lures that glow today
On Lil and Mame and Molly
Would shortly fade away.
We'd heard a lot of preachers—
Stern, unrelenting chaps—
Denounce these lovely creatures
For tinging up their maps.
"Their sense," said we, "will save 'em;
This fad will pass, and then,
The checks that Nature gave 'em
Will be the style again."

But science now discloses
That these alluring dears,
Were artificial roses
"Way back three thousand years.
In probing hidden places
In old forgotten tombs,
They've dug up jugs and vases
Of pastes and creams and blooms,
Which doubtless made entrancing
The cheeks of many a minstrel.
Who practiced posture dancing
Beneath the silent sphinx.

If Egypt's sunlight glinted
Three thousand years ago,
On faces softly tinted
With rare but bogus glow,
No matter how the preachers
May rage and storm and scold
On rouge enamelled features,
The girls won't take it off.
If artificial roses
Were blooming in the day
Of Pharaoh and Moses,
I guess they're here to stay.
